Rajputana Sunk; 2 Canadians Lost

H.M.S. RAJPUTANA

The armed merchant cruiser H.M.S. Rajputana, Capt. F. H. Taylor, D.S.C., R.N., which went to war from Victoria a year ago, has been torpedoed and sunk, the British Admiralty announced in London tonight, but didn't say where.

Ottawa announced two Canadians went down with her: Lieut. Victor R. Bussereau, Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, of Halifax, and Midshipman Frank Johnston, R.C.N.V.R., of Saint John, N.B.

Among the survivors was Cmdr. Paul B. Cross, R.C.N.V.R., of Halifax, and Ken Meredith, 18, son of Elmore Meredith, Vancouver lawyer. Meredith, a former British Columbia junior badminton champion, joined the merchant cruiser at Victoria as a midshipman.

Other Canadian survivors are Ian B. Chenoweth, Westmount, Quebec; John A. G. Clarke, Toronto; Murray H. Cooke, Galt, Ontario; William C. Gardner, Winnipeg; Graham F. Gower, Calgary; Daniel L. Hanington, Saint John; Alex McLellan, St. Thomas, Ont.; Thomas J. Shepard, Cardigan Head, P.E.I.; Thomas A. Maloney, Subinacade, N.S.; Daragh R. Tracey, Montreal; Guston Turgeon, Quebec, and Chesley W. Warford, Glace Bay, N.S.

The Rajputana, formerly a P. and O. liner plying between England and China and Japan, crossed the Pacific after the outbreak of war in 1939, to spend five months at Esquimalt being converted into a merchant cruiser.

Yarrows Ltd. changed her hull and superstructure, mounted guns, removed one of her twin funnels and most of her lifeboats. Then to make her unsinkable filled her hold with thousands of empty oil drums.

A British crew was brought here to take the big ship to sea. Several Victorians also signed on at the time, but some of them returned here and it is believed none went back to the ship.

Rajputana was a sister ship of H.M.S. Rawalpindi, sunk by the German pocket battleship Deutschland in November, 1939. Yesterday A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the British Admiralty, unveiled a memorial in London to Capt. E. C. Kennedy, who went down with his ship, guns blazing and odds heavily against her.

The Rajputana was built in 1926 at the Greenock plant of Harland and Wolff. She was registered at 16,664 tons, length 547 feet, beam 71 feet, and depth 43 feet. Her home port was Greenock.

Robert J. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Martin, 314 Simcoe Street, who left Victoria on the Rajputana more than a year ago, transferred to a British freighter some months ago and was among those rescued when she was torpedoed. He was landed safely in Ireland, according to a cable received by his parents.

The War Today

By DON GILBERT and KIRKE SIMPSON

BLOW
Difficulties of the British and Imperial army struggling to hold back the crushing weight of the German advance in eastern Greece were increased today by the surrender of the Greek army in the northwestern sector of the front.

WHAT OF THE TURKS?
The strong measures taken by the British government to assist the tranquility of Iraq, suggest determination not only to allow any Axis infiltration in this area, but also to assure a fresh line of communications with Turkey by way of the Persian Gulf and the Istanbul-Baghdad railway. It suggests that the growing British anxiety as to Turkey's position is to be bolstered by military measures designed to reassure the Turks; of which the reinforcement of the British power in Iraq will surely not be the last.

KEYSTONE
But perhaps nothing could be so reassuring to the Turks as a victory in north Africa, a conclusive demonstration of Axis inability to extend across the Mediterranean Sea aerial lines of communication of sufficient capacity to maintain an African expeditionary force of any consequence. This would mean the affirmation once and for all of the power of the British to maintain their fleet at Alexandria; the Turks know well that this is the keystone of Britain's strategic arch in the east, and it is undoubtedly true that the disquiet and hesitation in Ankara are far more due to the seeming peril to Suez offered by the German advance to Salum, than to the German victories in the Balkans, which Turkish military opinion had already discounted well in advance.

LACK EQUIPMENT
There may be a tendency to reproach Turkey for sitting idly by while Yugoslavia was overrun and Greece invaded; but on the hard military facts of the situation Turkey was in no position to strike unless the Germans had sustained several initial reverses.

Turkey lacks the mechanized equipment and the air power indispensable to a modern offensive. Had there been time, well in advance, time and good will and determination to form a hard and fast defensive alliance among Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey with British backing, and to implement this alliance with the necessary staff conversations, something might have been done. Bulgaria could probably have been held in line, and the Germans compelled to fight initially on the Danube; certainly the Italian adventure in Albania could have been liquidated. An entirely different military situation would then have confronted the German high command.

DEMANDS
Turkey seems certain to be faced with the familiar sequence of German demands: First a non-aggression treaty, next economic concessions, next demands for the passage of German troops en route toward Palestine and Mosul. Moscow will greatly influence the decisions to be taken at Ankara; so will a certain Oriental tendency to play for the highest possible bid by one side or the other. But in the end the Turks will probably resist if they think they have a good chance of being strongly supported by Britain, and at least tacitly approved by Russia. Thus the retention of a British foothold in Greece and the assurance of the British position in Iraq, may be important factors—but the greatest of all would be a British victory in north Africa which should make the Turks certain that British sea power will not be driven from the eastern Mediterranean.

Rebroadcast
St. George's Day speeches broadcast from Ottawa today by Mayor La Guardia of New York, Prime Minister King and L. W. Brockington will be rebroadcast 5.30 to 6.30 Victoria time today over CBR.

Final Bulletins

Ask Smuts' Opinion

LONDON (CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation tonight said General Jan C. Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, is being "consulted on all moves in the Balkans and other theatres of war."

The information was contained in an official announcement from Capetown.

British Still Intact

LONDON (CP)—Authoritative sources said tonight positions of British and Greek troops in Greece were still intact, but acknowledged some Greek forces in the centre of the line were cut off from supply bases.

The forces so left, this source said, were cut off by German troops who crossed the main communication line and they probably were unable to withdraw farther as an organized body.

The main body of the Greek army is established in new positions and fighting bravely beside the British troops, however, authoritative sources said, adding this fact was considered "encouraging."

Wavell Not Demoted

LONDON (CP)—Lord Moyne, government leader in the House of Lords, denied today a rumor the powers of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, Britain's middle-eastern commander-in-chief, had been curtailed.

Gen. Wavell enjoys the full confidence of the government, he said.

Australia 'All Out'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lt. Col. L. M. Cosgrave, senior Canadian trade commissioner in Australia, said on his arrival here today on his way to Ottawa, Australia is "absolutely all out" on co-operation with Canada on reciprocal war trade and industrial production for vital war needs.

"Australia's industrial war effort is worthy of her place in the Empire," Col. Cosgrave said. "In its own way, it is equal to the achievements of her fighting men in the field."

'Terrible, Not Deadly'

OTTAWA (CP)—Navy Minister W. M. Hughes of Australia told the people of that Dominion in a broadcast today "we are getting body blows, terrible but not deadly" in the fighting in Greece.

The broadcast was picked up at the CBC's listening post here.

'World's Biggest Bomb'

LONDON (CP)—"The biggest bomb ever flung out of an airplane" was dropped on Emden, German naval base, recently by Spdn. Ldr. R. H. Gardiner, R.A.F., who had been employed on the design of the bomb.

The disclosure was made in the House of Lords by Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft production.

"He loaded his great bomb on an airplane and went with it to Emden," the minister said. "He dropped it on the town and came back, reaching the ministry at 9 in the morning. At 10 he was describing to me his experiences in technical terms."

Dogs Join Search

HERON BAY, Ont. (CP)—Col. Hubert Stethem, director of internment operations guiding the search for six Germans who remain free of the 28 who escaped from a nearby internment camp last Friday night, said today that "if the Germans are not found in the area today, they are not here."

The area to which he referred is bounded on the south by the Canadian Pacific Railway Line, on the east by the Pic River and on the north and west by the abandoned right-of-way or a section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Aussies Fight On

SYDNEY (AP)—Crowds cheered army minister Percy Spender here today when in the course of a recruiting speech he declared the Australian troops in Greece had refused to allow the Germans to break their line.

He said the Australian leader in Greece, Maj. Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, would emerge from the current battle as one of Australia's greatest commanders.

Capture Italians

CAIRO (AP)—Australian troops have captured 447 Italians in successful raids from Tobruk, Libya, the British general headquarters for the Middle East announced late today.

No Casualties

WITH THE BRITISH FLEET IN ALEXANDRIA (AP)—British warships reached this Mediterranean base today fresh from the bombardment of Tripoli. Officers said the force has suffered neither damage nor casualties.

British fighters engaged an attacking air formation which tried to bomb the fleet yesterday and shot down at least one plane. A second was seen plunging toward the sea in flames and a third appeared damaged.

Ship Tungsten

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—The Riverside mine on Salmon River in Alaska just across the border from British Columbia, will start shipping $500,000 worth of tungsten ore monthly through Prince Rupert to the United States, it was announced today by managing director J. H. Scott of Riverside, Calif.

Duchess Flies

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—The Duchess of Windsor took her first airplane ride today, flying here from Florida with the Duke after a visit in the United States.

Unqualified Success

TORONTO (CP)—James Y. Murdoch, president of the Canadian War Services Fund whose ship sailed today "the first United War Services appeal held in Canada was an unqualified success."

Darlan at Paris

VICHY (AP)—Admiral Jean Darlan, French vice-premier, left Vichy today by automobile—presumably for Paris for a preliminary discussion of Nazi terms of closer collaboration between the two countries.

Hints of "imminent" Vichy cabinet changes to create a more "satisfactory" government have appeared in the press of the German-occupied zone of France.

JUGOSLAVS STILL BRITAIN'S ALLIES

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden told parliament today King Peter of Yugoslavia and his government have "established themselves in the Middle East" and will continue the struggle as Britain's ally.

Mr. Eden said the Yugoslavs could count on "the fullest possible measure of help" from Britain, whose firm intention is "fully to maintain the independence of Yugoslavia."

The Foreign Secretary said "kid glove" tactics henceforth would not be used wherever Britain has "power and authority to take action."

Churchill Sees King

LONDON (CP)—King George received Prime Minister Churchill in audience today at Buckingham Palace and it was understood Mr. Churchill gave the sovereign a detailed report on the latest developments of the war situation.

Links Broken

SOFIA (AP)—Greece formally broke off diplomatic relations with Bulgaria today following the occupation of Thrace by Bulgarian troops. A note announcing the break was handed to Bulgarian Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff.

British Battle Germans After Greek Army Quits

Canadian and Associated Press
It was reliably reported tonight in Cairo, said a Reuters dispatch, that temporary easing of German pressure in Greece has enabled the British forces to consolidate their new positions.

Reuters also reported tonight that the Athens radio had broadcast an announcement that King George II of Greece and his government had arrived on the island of Crete.

Earlier it had been learned that King George had abandoned Athens with his government during the day in an attempt to continue the fight from Crete after his army of Epirus, holding the left flank of the Allied defence line, had capitulated under the hammering of German-Italian forces.

The capitulation, which the King said was negotiated without his knowledge, rendered precarious the position of the remainder of the Greek army and of British and Imperial troops last reported battling Nazi divisions seeking to force a way through historic Thermopylae Pass on the eastern end of the Hellenic front.

The fate of the British was left uncertain in dispatches to London, but it appeared they faced the alternatives of abandoning Greece altogether or undertaking an equally hazardous retreat through Athens to the Peloponnese.

Germans Claim 250,000 Greeks Taken

In Berlin Nazi spokesmen claimed the German army had defeated "the British rear guard" at Thermopylae and claimed 250,000 Greeks had surrendered to the Axis forces in the Epirus sector.

(No figure was available in London on the number of Greeks involved in the armistice in the northwest sector. Greece's forces at the beginning of the war were estimated by some sources at about 600,000.)

The Nazi spokesmen in Berlin claimed Greek armored units had passed through the gateway of Thermopylae and "are relentlessly pursuing the retreating British in the direction of Athens."

A less expansive communique of the German high command, however, said simply that moves in Greece were "proceeding according to plan" and that "forces advancing by way of Lamia, farther south, compelled English rearwards to fight at historic Thermopylae Pass."

The enemy communique claimed in Greek waters yesterday German combat planes destroyed "enemy merchantmen" totaling 37,000 tons and that 12 other large ships were bombarded. "The heaviest bomb hit a large warship in Suda Bay," it said.

(A Greek communique said some damage had been caused to shipping.)

King Determined To Carry on Fight

Despite the desperate outlook, King George announced it was his intention to carry on the struggle "with all remaining forces with a view to securing the supreme national interests." (See text of proclamation on page 11.)

It was the army of Epirus which scored the great successes against the Italians after they had invaded Greece last October 28, driving them back into Albania, and later sweeping up the Albanian coast for more than 50 miles.

During the past week, however, this army had been falling back under a flanking German thrust from the north. It appeared the army finally had been hemmed in between the revitalized Italian forces and a Nazi column stabbing southwestward to Ioannina from Metsovo in an encircling movement.

(The Germans had claimed capture of Ioannina.)

The island of Crete, to which King George went as the new seat of the government, is 75 miles off the southeastern tip of Greece and about 250 miles north of the Libyan coast, where Axis armies are now engaged in a drive aimed at the Suez Canal.

British bases established on Crete shortly after the beginning of the Greek-Italian war.

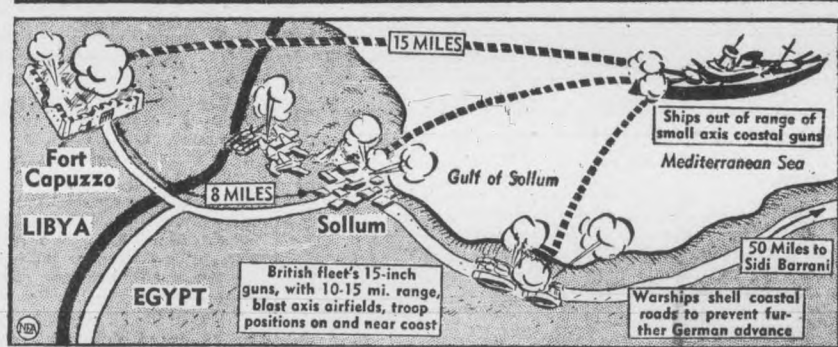

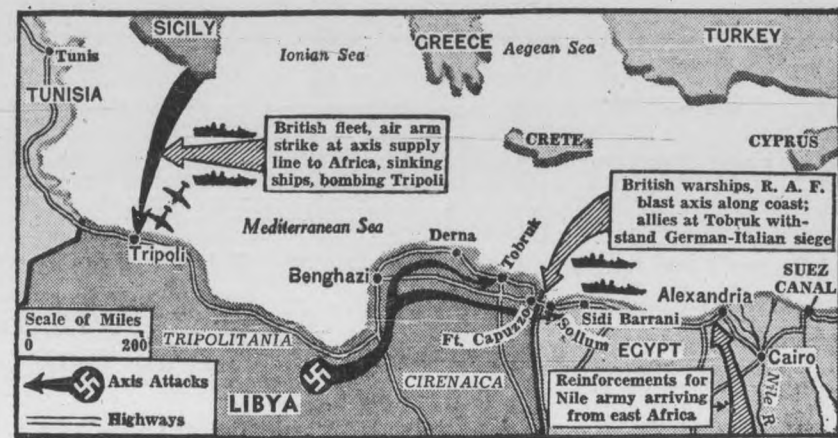

The Germans apparently were timing a new onslaught against the re-established Allied right wing in the Lokris Mountains, with an all-out attempt to isolate Greece from overseas contacts, by pounding ports and showering bombs on every type of shipping off the coast.

Athens alone had seven alarms in the 24 hours up to last midnight; anti-aircraft fire and bomb explosions could be heard from the outskirts. Eighty dive bombers were seen in a single raid near the ancient capital.

The German fliers came in waves, met by British and Greek planes outnumbered eight or more to one, in their attacks on Athens' big port of Piraeus, the coastal cities of Megara and Eleusis, and the Attika district, all around Athens.

German spokesman in Berlin claimed today that the German, Italian and Greek commands at present were deliberating on conditions of the Greek Epirus army's capitulation.

While the Italian high command today said the Greek northwestern army had surrendered, it made no mention of other Greek forces to the southeast which had been fighting alongside the British army below the plains of Thessaly.

BRITISH FLEET POUNDS ENEMY IN NORTH AFRICA—While Australian and British troops are battling the Nazi drive in Greece, the great guns of the Mediterranean fleet have been causing havoc at Tripoli and other Axis-held points in Libya and Tripolitania. See story of last Monday's violent attack on Tripoli on page 3.

New York Mayor Hints U.S. Convoys

Offshore Defence Necessary, Says La Guardia

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility the United States was ready to co-operate with Canada in conveying supplies to Britain as far as 900 miles out on the Atlantic was seen today in remarks of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York to a St. George's Day luncheon gathering.

The Mayor of New York, chairman of the United States section of the Canada-United States joint defence board, told his listeners the United States and Canada were prepared to defend not only the coastline of North America but the seas three hours' travel by airplane.

"And when I say three hours I mean the distance an airplane going 330 miles an hour can travel in three hours," he declared.

Before departing for Washington by plane the mayor told the Canadian Press that by three hours' travel by air he meant three hours' travel "from the most eastern point where we have bases."

Before going to the luncheon of the Canadian Club and the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities Mr. La Guardia had been asked by reporters how far the United States was prepared to go in the matter of conveying war materials to Britain.

The mayor replied: "Watch my speech today. There will be a line in that will give you the whole answer."

"The defence of Canada and the United States means not only the defence of our coasts but off-shore defence as well," he told the luncheon meeting.

The New York mayor proposed the toast to England at the luncheon.

ENGLAND WILL REMAIN

"We share with you the definite assurance that 1,600 years from now this day of the patron saint of England will still be celebrated," he declared, recalling that St. George had lived 1,600 years ago.

"The message I bring to you and, through you to the people of England," he declared, "is that the people of the United States are translating their sympathy and understanding into effective and material aid in everything we can give to the cause of England."

American people knew and understood the problems facing Britain and Canada, Mayor La Guardia said, "and no one understands better than the leading, driving force of the United States, President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"Our task is first in giving equipment and of finding the way to get it where it belongs," he said.

The understanding between Canada and the United States was "not only complete but most successful," he said. "If there was any doubt about the close relations and complete understanding between Canada and the United States, surely all doubt was removed at the conference which took place last Sunday."

Work of the joint defence board of Canada and the United States was proceeding "smoothly and successfully," he said.

"We are up to date and prepared to change our plans to meet changed conditions."

"So close is our co-operation that we have never taken a vote. There has never been a division of that joint board. Plans are being worked out in detail and we are ready to meet any situation."

In keeping with the methods of modern war the joint defence board took a realistic view of the North American problem.

In the United States there was a complete understanding that England was "fighting not only to preserve English civilization but American institutions as well."

They might be disturbed by news bulletins at times but they were not discouraged because they knew the history of England and because of their confidence in the people of England and in Winston Churchill.

In thanking the mayor, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said his message would be welcomed not only by the people of Canada but by the people of Great Britain.

The message was welcome particularly, Mr. King said, because it expressed the sentiments of a nation which was supporting Canada, the Empire and other nations fighting for freedom and because it came from a man who was known as a consistent champion of freedom and a long-standing friend of Canada.

"We all know that national democracy must be based on municipal democracy," said Mr. King, "and we admire Mr. La Guardia for the part he is playing today in setting an example to all men of what true citizenship means."

L. W. Brookington, adviser to Prime Minister King, replied to the toast to St. George.

"England stands in the centre of the arena of the world's tragedy," he said.

"But the English do not say 'We who are about to die salute you.' They say, 'We who are about to live again salute you.'"

(The speeches of La Guardia, King and Brookington will be re-broadcast over a CBC network between 5.30 and 6.30 this evening.)

Parliament Called at Canberra

Tension Rises in Australia

SYDNEY (AP)—The Sydney Morning Herald said editorially today the Commonwealth government's decision to call a special session of Parliament to review the nation's part in the war was a wise move in view of current developments.

It was announced today a session would be held, probably May 7. The decision was made after communication between cabinet members here and Prime Minister Menzies in London.

The Morning Herald said Parliament has a duty to review Australia's own defence preparations in the light of lessons taught by the campaign in Greece and also because of "grave new dangers." There was criticism of the Australian forces being sent into Greece without adequate support.

Other sections of the press directed attention to the movement of troops into Greece without knowledge of the Advisory War Council.

The Sydney Daily Telegraph said the Australian people even now will find it hard to believe the government sanctioned participation of Australian troops in the Greek "adventure" without British assurance "that our troops were adequately supported."

Jacqueline Smith of Nanaimo was second with 81 and Jackie Stannard of Nanaimo was third with 76.

Little Bobby Hindmarch of Nanaimo scored 80 points in the class for violinists under 10 years of age, to win that group.

Preliminary finalists in the class for piano under 10 years were Robert Little, John Rinatala and Gladys Troop, all of Nanaimo. No marks were given.

Preliminary finalists in class 88, elocution for girls under 16, were Sylvia I. Bradwell, Harewood; Dawn Murray, Duncan; Nadine Graham, Nanaimo; Susan Ankettell-Jones, Duncan, and Audrey Storey, Harewood. No marks were given.

world and would have lost some of our self-respect."

Menzies Advocates United Efforts

In his statement last night Mr. Menzies called for formation of a "truly national war administration" in the Commonwealth and, addressing an appeal to his countrymen thousands of miles away, asked them to be "worthy" of the Australians who are dying in Greece.

"In the face of the present situation," he said, "it is an imperative necessity to have a complete, united national effort. I once more call upon all parties to close up ranks."

(The Menzies government is a coalition of the United Australian and Country parties. The Labor party, largest single party in the Australian House of Representatives, has refused to join the cabinet.)

"We must recognize that the greatest crisis of its history," he said.

"We can and shall get through it if we all pull hard and pull together."

"But political debates while the tempest is raging cannot help us."

Defending his administration from charges that the Australian force had been moved into Greece without consulting the Australian Advisory War Council, Mr. Menzies said the move was of such strategic importance, and cloaked in such secrecy, that in London only members of the War Cabinet knew it, the discussions not extending to ministers generally.

"The present difficulties in the Greek campaign were always understood by the British, Australian and New Zealand governments," the Prime Minister declared in a statement, issued to Australian press representatives here.

"It was felt that it was unthinkable that Greece, which fought so valiantly against the Italians and which was prepared to withstand the onset of Germany through Bulgaria, should be left unassisted."

Could Not Have Shrugged Shoulders

"I say quite bluntly," he added, "that whatever criticisms may arise in relation to our assistance to Greece, it is nothing to the criticism we would justly have encountered all over the world if, having cheered Greece on for months and encouraged her in her epic struggle, we then shrugged our shoulders and said that against Germany we could give her no aid and that she must fight alone."

(The Advisory War Council represents all factions in the Australian Parliament.)

Beaverbrook Encouraging

R.A.F. Has 1,000 Planes From Canada, U.S.

LONDON (CP)—Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production, told the House of Lords today "nearly 1,000 assembled American and Canadian aircraft have been handed over to the R.A.F."

He said that "up to this moment we have only lost one aircraft on the ferry service between America and this country."

The British Admiralty had received in the last few days 95 aircraft by sea, 355 tons of airplane parts and 326 engines," he said.

"Five new types of engines have been brought into use, of which the Sabre is perhaps the greatest engine produced," he said.

"The flow of aircraft from America is increasing rapidly," he added.

"I am prepared to say with authority that they are fine machines and that they are ready to fly and fight."

Lord Beaverbrook said "the dispersal of production has been carried out on a very daring basis," declaring that "one plant alone, which used to occupy a single site, is now scattered over five counties and 42 different centres." He said German claims of bombing airplane factories "turned out to be nothing at all because our factories had gone away."

The air ferrying system, the minister said, "not only is continuing but is likely to be extended."

Lord Beaverbrook said "there has been, of course, a steady drain on our shipments of aircraft by sea from America due to losses in convoy."

"We greatly deplore the destruction of splendid aircraft so suitable for our purposes but the disappointment is somewhat dissipated by knowledge the flow

Hot Words

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York stepped from the plane that had brought him here from Washington today and in pungent language expressed his unequivocal opinion of Hitler.

"I still think Hitler is an old son of —," said the mayor as he smilingly greeted reporters.

He told the newsmen he could be quoted.

INTERCESSION

"For England and Saint George!"

(O save Thy people, and give Thy blessing to Thine inheritance. —Psalm 28, Verse 10.)

Lord, lest we perish hear our cry,
Our chastened spirit sanctify:
Look down upon our hosts today,
Nor let the foe their hearts dismay:
O'er land and sea, and in the air,
Lord, hold them in Thy loving care:
For Thine the power within Whose hand
We put our trust, Thine to command.

Crusaders in Thy royal cause,
Ours to maintain Thy holy laws:
Ours to uphold the Righteousness
Wherewith Thou would'st the nations bless:
Defenders of the Faith are we
Who faint now fight for Liberty:
And humbly look to Thee, O Lord,
Whose power alone may smother the sword.

Bless Thou our Sovereign Lord, King George,
The bonds of Empire closer forge;
Preserve our loved and gracious Queen,
Brave, loyal-hearted and serene!
Watch o'er their dear ones and protect
The needy, Lowly, and the elect:
Who daily suffer grief and pain,
That Peace and Piety shall reign.

More Warships for Britain

Canada to Build Corvettes for U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Navy Secretary Knox said today the United States navy is negotiating with Canada for construction in Canada of a number of warships, probably of the new British corvette type, such as are used for convoy escort work.

He made the statement at a press conference.

Any combat ships Canada would build for the U.S. navy, Knox said, might be turned over to Great Britain under the lease system. The decision, he said, would be made when they neared completion.

Aside from providing Canada with needed dollar exchange, the secretary said the arrangement would tend to reinforce U.S. construction.

He stated the arrangement was projected as a part of the co-operation program worked out last week-end between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

steam. A minesweeper was also attacked and damaged.

"Last night two attacks were made by aircraft of the bomber and coastal commands on Brest, the Atlantic port in which the surface raiders Scharnhorst and Gneisenau are still sheltering. Bombs were dropped in the target area."

"From all these operations one of our aircraft is missing."

Stalin's last previous speech was to the Communist Party congress in March, 1939, when he declared Russia had no intention of allowing herself to be drawn into a war against Germany to "pull other peoples' chests out of the fire for them."

His latest words were spoken in the Palace of the Kremlin, at a reception for singers and dancers of the Middle Asiatic Tajik Republic who have just completed an art festival in Moscow.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, briefly reported that "Comrade Stalin spoke warmly of the great Lenin, who created the Bolshevik Party, organized the union of peoples of this free country. Then Comrade Stalin proposed a toast to the health and flourishing of the Tajik people and all possible development of their culture and art."

R.A.F. HITS SHIP OFF NORWAY

LONDON (CP)—The Air Ministry issued this communique Wednesday:

"During daylight yesterday, aircraft of the bomber command made a low-level attack on a heavily laden ship of about 2,000 tons off the coast of Norway. The ship was hit and was left enveloped in a cloud of smoke and

Strikes Increased In Canada in 1940

OTTAWA (CP)—Strikes and lockouts in 1940 showed an increase over the previous year, 168 strikes involving 60,619 workers and time loss of 266,318 man-working days compared with 122 disputes involving 41,308 workers and time loss of 224,588 days in 1939, the Labor Department says in its annual review.

The increase occurred chiefly in the textile and clothing and metal manufacturing industries, the review said.

Almost 60 per cent of workers in all disputes were partially successful in winning their demands, almost 9 per cent fully successful, while almost 30 per cent were involved in disputes which ended in favor of employers.

Enemy Points Destroyed Near Bardia

Shelling of Tripoli Navy's Biggest Yet

RAIDED BY NAVY'S BIG GUNS—This is a general view of the waterfront section of Tripoli, Italy's greatest north African base, into which 1,000 tons of high explosives were poured Monday morning by the British Mediterranean Fleet.

By LARRY ALLEN.

WITH THE BRITISH FLEET BOMBARDING TRIPOLI, LIBYA (Delayed AP)—The red-hot guns of Britain's Mediterranean battle fleet set Tripoli harbor aflame today (Monday) in what officers said was the biggest and most spectacular bombardment of naval history.

They pumped more than 1,000 tons of high explosives into the Barbary coast base of the Germans and Italians.

Bases Crushed Like Eggshells

Fifteen-inch, six-inch and 4.5-inch projectiles from the battle-ships rumbled over the high-battled Moorish walls of Mussolini's last large African stronghold, starting great fires, crushing enemy striking bases like egg shells and terrorizing the population.

The guns' scorching firing continued steadily for 42 minutes from 5 a.m., repeatedly scoring direct hits.

I was aboard the most powerful battleship of the fleet, close to the streaks of flame from her powerful guns. They turned blackness into light and the on-shell rumbled through the night with a noise like a rushing train.

The huge shells exploded on Tripoli with shattering force and the entire seafloor seemed ablaze.

6 Enemy Ships Hit By Shells

Shells ripped into the heart of each of the battleships designated targets. Six Axis ships, including several warships, were hit and severely damaged—possibly sunk.

Tripoli's railroad station, freight yards and power plant burst into a mass of flames as armor-piercing shells crashed into underground oil deposits.

As sheets of fire spurted high into the sky, salvos crashed into the Axis naval headquarters buildings, destroying them as though they had been made of cardboard.

Bombing Planes Opened Way

The surprise bombardment of Mussolini's heaviest fortified African possession, once the base of Tripoli pirates and now the jumping-off place of Hitler's tanks thrusting against Egypt, opened a few minutes after a wave of bombers had handed Tripoli one of the severest bombings of the war.

Huge, darkened British battleships, cruisers and destroyers, faintly silhouetted in the moonlight, splashed quietly through a calm sea, manoeuvring around a network of mines, until they came within point-blank range of Tripoli harbor.

I stood on a battleship signal deck and then an emergency conning tower for fully 90 minutes before the shelling started and watched Tripoli's heavy anti-aircraft guns spurt flame, trying to hit bombing planes.

Streaks of Fire Crisscross Sky

Splinters of fire seared into the sky. I saw thousands of tracer "flaming onions" slither snake-like into the darkness from the defence bases. Red, blue, green and white bursts of bullets merged into a scene reminiscent of a Christmas tree.

I saw scores of heavy and high explosive bombs crash along Tripoli's harborline. Fires mushroomed. Some defence batteries which for a time seemed to fire from their circular positions ceased. The darkness was splashed with great blobs of ruddy light from explosion of the British missiles.

Daring Raid On Bardia Coast

LONDON (CP)—The Ministry of Information announced today a raiding party which landed near Bardia, Libya, last Saturday night destroyed an important bridge, fired an Axis stores dump and put four coast defence guns out of commission.

(The Italians claimed earlier this week German and Italian troops had frustrated an attempted landing by British forces on the Libyan coast, capturing a number of prisoners.)

Bardia, not far from the Egyptian border, is about 75 miles east of Tobruk, where a British garrison has been reported holding off repeated German-Italian attacks.

The announcement said that "the true story of the British landing at Bardia can now be told. On the night of April 20, a British force with special demolition materials was landed near the town."

"They had a definite plan to carry out," said the statement, adding that "the bridge was blown up. The dump consisted of stores particularly valuable to the enemy and was left burning fiercely."

"The Italians claimed to have captured the whole of the raiding party. This statement is untrue. The major part of the raiding party embarked safely and returned to their base, but about 60 of its members failed to re-embark and their capture has been claimed by the enemy."

Mayors Talk Of Rehabilitation

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans for the rehabilitation of soldiers, sailors and airmen in civilian life after the war were urged by speakers at the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities now in progress here.

Representatives of some municipalities still confronted with the problem of unemployment urged reconsideration of the federal government's decision to cut off relief grants to provinces at March 31 last, while others, expressing fear of a post-war recurrence of unemployment, urged preparation now of machinery to provide opportunity for ex-servicemen after the war.

RELIEF

Mayor MacLean of St. Boniface, Man., led the criticism of the cutting off of federal relief grants. He said the decision left his city with 425 families on relief, that the city was unable to carry the load and the province of Manitoba was in no position to assist it.

Support for Mayor MacLean's resolution asking the federal government to reconsider the decision came from Mayor Holman of Charlottetown.

"Our people are discontented," he said. "They ask why they and their children must starve while the different governments argue as to who is to take care of them."

WOULD CONTINUE PAY

Alderman S. Parsons of Edmonton proposed a resolution that the federal government continue army pay and allowances to men leaving the fighting services until they are re-established. He said men who served in the present war were in a worse position than those who served in the last war because fewer were trained for civilian jobs, but they should not be asked to put up with the conditions experienced by men after the last war.

Alderman Parsons also sponsored a resolution calling for financing public works by loans to provinces and municipalities from the Bank of Canada at cost, repayable over two-thirds of the normal life of the asset created, or 30 years at the outside,

England Stands

ST. GEORGE'S DAY THIS YEAR MAY not be an occasion for joyful celebration. The news from Greece, though not unexpected, has cast new gloom over people everywhere who on this day revive the memory of England's patron saint. But if there be confusion and disappointment in many minds—and there must be—consolation will be found in the fact that the cause to which the British Empire and its friends are committed is more clearly defined than it was a year ago. Even at that stage of the conflict the Nazi beast's invasion of Denmark and Norway had revealed a part of Germany's strategy, an ominous foretaste of something for which decent peoples had not altogether bargained. Yet we believed in the valor and strength of the French army. Our trust in the invulnerability of the Maginot Line gave us courage; and despite their refusal to accept the warnings of Mr. Churchill, we had somehow convinced ourselves that Belgium and Holland would give a good account of themselves in a satisfactory delaying action if the Nazi juggernaut should be disposed to go their way. We were soon disillusioned. British peoples everywhere again heard the battle cry of Creedy and Agincourt: "St. George for Merrie England!"

So on this day the world pays especial homage to the people of England—Englishmen and Englishwomen in all walks of life who for nearly a year have stood up to the most brutal Dragon the world has ever beheld. Not for us to attempt to wander down the battered streets of England's historic cities; not for us to allow our imagination to take us back to days of other years when the lovely countryside, in April of all the months, was undisturbed by the tread of marching men and the rumble of modern war's ugly creations—when the beautiful notes of the skylark were unaccompanied by the drone of the bomber's engine. But we know these men and women of England will survive; they will live to see their cities rise again in a world that must be better than the world of 1941; they will still stroll along the Thames Embankment without a gasmask, sit again in peace under the willow trees on the banks of the Avon. They will look back on this dark page in their history and recall that when they stood alone, when they repeated aloud "St. George for Merrie England!" in the summer of 1940, they were indeed entering "their finest hour." But let Alice Duer Miller finish this piece:

I am American bred.
I have seen much to hate here—much to forgive.
But in a world where England is finished and dead,
I do not wish to live.

Airdromes in Alaska

LONG BEFORE NEXT WINTER MOST of the six new Alaska airports may be usable and in operation. We may be hearing a good deal more than of yore of the rather picturesque names they bear: Juneau, Cordova, Boundary, Big Delta, West Ruby and Nome. They are part of the $3,300,000 worth of new defence airports which are soon to dot Alaska and link it to Canada and the United States. Mile-long runways required by modern bombers are not easily or quickly built. So when one realizes that this program got under way only last fall, it provides evidence that real progress is being made. The United States is determined to defend its uttermost boundaries and to reach out its defensive arm in every direction from which attack might come. For both reasons, Alaska's defence is vital, and it is encouraging to us in this country to see it move forward with such alacrity.

Questions That Can Wait

WHEN THE HISTORIAN APPROACHES that part of his task which will be devoted to Britain's participation in the Battle of Greece he will have a fund of expert military and political information on which to base his judgment. The strategist will no doubt have informed him that the whole plan of landing troops and equipment in the hope of saving the gallant Greek armies was a huge tactical blunder; he will have in his possession ample evidence to prove the point—the vast superiority in size and volume of mechanized equipment, plus an overwhelming preponderance of man power, which the Axis command had at its disposal. From the political and moral point of view, however, he would do well to study the progress of events leading up to Yugoslavia's defiance of the totalitarianism and Hitler's subsequent opening of a second battle front. His judgment must be balanced between the two proposals: Should Britain have thrown military discretion to the winds—as she obviously did and knew it—by living up to her pledge of honor to her brave ally? Or should she have completed her campaign in Libya by ordering General Wavell to push on to Tripoli and remove the last vestige of opposition, then existing or possible of revival, on that side of the Mediterranean?

These questions must remain, as we have implied, for the historian to answer. For the moment, the world that still retains its belief in observance of the pledged word will acclaim Britain for the course she took, disastrous as it may turn out at any hour now. Had the army of the Nile gone on to Tripoli, completely removed all Axis danger from that quarter, it is not unlikely Britain would have been accused of imperialism. Instead, however, Mr. Churchill set his course according to the highest concept of honor. Greece had fought to a standstill a totalitarian power seven times her size in military might; she had been assured of every possible assistance the British army, navy and air force could give her. That assistance was given when her population of a little more than 6,000,000 was confronted by the combined forces of a population of 125,000,000, plus the sinister aid in one form or another of Hungary, Bulgaria, and Rumania. With all the military exigencies suggesting another course, with her own battles in the air, on the land, and on the sea difficult and trying enough in all conscience, Britain kept her word. And if British peoples everywhere still adhere to what the advocates of a Hitlerian "new order" consider an effete philosophy, an outmoded interpretation of national and international conduct, if free men and free women the world over prefer to remain old-fashioned enough to believe in decency and fair dealing, we venture to suggest that when the historian answers the questions we have posed, he will say Britain's campaign in Greece helped in an immeasurable way to bring the final victory which by that time will have been scored by the forces of right.

He Chose Death

WHEN COUNT PAUL TELEKI ENDED his life with a bullet the other day he gave notice to the world he preferred death to executing the final instrument that would put an end to that semblance of independence which Hungary had managed to preserve. He had gone as far along the road of appeasement as he was prepared to go. Driven by the whips of necessity and the desire to play for time in the hope a decision in favor of what appeared to be inevitable could be avoided, he saw his faith fade. His last hours were spent with his ailing wife; perhaps he confided in her, for he was a proud man—born in that romantic city of Budapest of an honored family.

Canadians may know little about and are not especially interested in Hungarian politics; but Teleki's career is such an object lesson that it is worth study by anyone who loves freedom. He served the Austro-Hungarian monarchy as a soldier on the Serbian and Italian fronts. After the war he helped to put down the Bela Kun Communist regime and to re-establish a real Hungarian independent state. He was personally fearless, and once walked unarmed up to a barricade concealing reactionary officers in revolt, demanded their surrender, and got it. He resolutely put down attempts to restore the monarchy. He was a scholar, and sought to retire to scholarship. He watched—during 1938 and 1939—his government draw closer to Germany, seeking thereby to seize in safety pieces of Ruthenia and Carpatho-Russia to which his country felt entitled. In early 1939 he was recalled to the Premier's office. With German help, Hungary finally got Transylvania, its slice of Rumania. By November of last year, Hungary's envelopment by the German colossus was such that it had no choice but to adhere to the Axis. At last came the reckoning. The orders came from Berlin: "You will now join in the attack on Yugoslavia!"

Teleki was brave as well as proud. In January of this year he had still been making pleas for "an independent Hungary," urging his people to "be unflinching Magyars, not be defeatists, not bow down in defeatism to anybody or anything." But it came to be April, 1941, and his "independent Hungary" was ordered to make war on friendly peoples to serve the ambition of Berlin. World War and internal revolution had not daunted this man—but this was somehow different. He saw the end of the road had come—the end of the independent Hungary he had served, the end of the road for him. Many less prominent men in other countries have done the same, when they have found, as they all find sooner or later, that at the end of Appeasement Road there is—death.

"I wouldn't like to see Rome too much destroyed," said Col. the Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells, chief chaplain of the Canadian Army at Ottawa, "but I cannot see how it can escape." surprising how general that feeling seems to be.

A Shakespearean Sonnet for Shakespeare's Birthday
April 23, 1564—Shakespeare's Birthday
April 23, 1941—377th Anniversary
By DONALD A. FRASER
This brow was mounded with such massive thought,
The years have since been lost in wonderment.
And, time and time they grateful tribute brought
For his great gift of wit and wisdom blent!
These were the eyes that saw our world a stage,
A-throng with actors ardent on their play;
To match their ecstasies of love or rage,
This tongue spoke words that thrill us still today!
Now let these ears ring with the meed of praise
Our fervent souls would shout, or whisper low;
Mayhap shall live that wreath of bronzen bays,
And from these lips new breath of life outflow!
Love would remodel from these so godlike parts,
Those deathless features for our shining hearts!

Bruce Hutchison FULFILLMENT

THIS, OF COURSE, is the season of the gardener's fulfillment. Now he can see, in the great judgment book of nature, whether he is worthy of his trust. Now he can tell, by the verdict of his spring flowers, whether he has planted well and truly, whether he has earned the right to Nature's consideration.

Generally, of course, he is disappointed. Nothing is altogether perfect, for, if the aubretia makes a brave show, the alyssum is pretty sure to be under par, and if the azaleas gush with blossom, the roses, no doubt, have aphids on them by now. And even though all specimens are perfect in themselves, what gardener can observe the whole picture of his garden today without detecting some flaw in the whole plan? Who can hear the symphony without detecting some flat and sour notes?

Thus, while the casual observer and the barbarian invader from another city may see in every garden nothing but perfection, to the real gardener this is a season of vain regrets for past failures and high resolves for the future. This is the season when the gardens of 1942 are being quietly planned by obscure, unknown men, leaning on their hoes at dusk and worrying about the health of their phlox or the clash of colors in their rockeries.

SACRED GROUND

BUT I HAVE LONG HELD that the real importance of this season is not in its blooms and lush, heavy growths, but in its tiny seed and its future seedlings. Let the sensuous visitor and the rough barbarian admire the completed works of Nature, the great outpouring of flowers. Far lovelier to the true rustic spirit is the seed with its wonders yet unformed, its mysteries wrapped in its hard little shell, its mighty heart beating too faintly to be heard, all its stored-up vitality, which is stronger than the muscles of an elephant, as yet suppressed, lacking only sunshine and moisture.

Far sweeter than the scent of lilacs or the drunken, prodigal bloom of rock plants is the feel of tiny seeds in the hand and the soft, newly-dug earth under your knees. For the sowing of seeds is the true measure and the ultimate test of the natural man. Nay, more, it is the real wonder of all gardening, the final mystery, the ultimate sacrament.

Small wonder that rose bushes bear roses. No surprise that lilac blooms form on tough branches. Nothing remarkable in grass turning green. But how to explain that within a few short weeks a tiny black globe, no larger than a pin's head and without appearance of life, can become an onion, valuable raw or boiled? How to explain that a little yellow pellet, hard to the touch, without expression or movement, will shortly turn into a dozen cobs of succulent corn?

RELIGIOUS MAN

THIS IS THE REAL mystery. And that is why your vegetable gardener is the truly religious man, the mystic among gardeners. Ah, yes, I have known growers of roses who ground the faces of the poor. I have known beautiful women who loved lilacs and yet were more poisonous than the root of hellbore. Delphinium fanciers have often been burglars and bank robbers. A man who grows the most exquisite daffodils may beat his wife, and probably does. There are persons of my acquaintance who nurture shy primroses and yet would steal candy from a defenceless child.

Your sower of seeds, however, must be virtuous, whether he wants to be or not. The very experience of sowing them must burn the dross from his character, must refine his instincts, and purify his thoughts. Kneeling reverently on the ground, until there are no knees in his pants, gently lowering the tiny globules of life into the earth, patting them into bed, raking the soil above them and pausing to pull an earwig limb from limb, the gardener is hallowed and sanctified in the great cathedral of the sunshine under the blue canopy of the sky, to the sacred music of April breezes rustling in the grass and the song of a robin and the jingle of a plow-horse and the shout of his wife, vainly calling him to dinner.

KEEP THEM

KEEP YOUR SHRUBS and perennials, then, those grosser fruits of the earth. Keep your sensual flowers, and all the carnal pleasures of the springtime. Let me have but a handful of onion seeds, a few packages of radishes, perhaps an ounce or two of spinach and half a dozen flat squash seeds, and I shall not envy your worldly delights amid the sinful scents of springtime. I shall kneel in the old, old place, in the little patch of earth down by the ditch, and there, one by one, I shall put the little containers of life into the soil. And there I shall watch in the morning and at night for the first green shoots to appear, for the first frail growth, and when the quail have consumed them all, when the earwigs have devoured them, when the aphids has feasted on them—then I shall turn back to the flower garden, knowing it for second best.

The outcome of the income depends on the outgo for upkeep.
Best definition of a blotter: What you hunt for while the ink dries.

Parallel Thoughts

Only fear the Lord, and serve Him in truth with all your heart: for consider how great things He hath done for you.—Samuel 12:24.
As soon as I have done to fear I have ceased to fear.—Schiller.

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE

THE PEOPLE of this country, as well as the United States, are being forced to think about the whole question of—trades unions, and strikes, as they have never done before.

Public opinion is overwhelmingly behind the war production effort. That effort, in the United States, has been seriously retarded because of strikes. That fact in itself presents a major problem for the attention of any democracy. But it is magnified and complicated by three other factors:

1. The owners of the war industries, both in Canada and the United States, themselves took steps against the government which were tantamount to strikes, to make sure that any war work they undertook would be not only amply but generously rewarded. Labor feels that it is just following suit.

2. Many of the strikes are actually called and prolonged by Communist members or sympathizers; and the Communist Party line as laid down by Moscow is to do everything possible to sabotage the war effort against Hitler.

3. A few of the strikes centre about the struggle for control between the C.I.O. and the A.F. of L. They have nothing whatever to do with the relationship between the employers and workers. Yet they are just as instrumental as any other kind of labor stoppage in holding up production—hence, under present circumstances, in helping Hitler and harming Britain.

SAUCE FOR GANDER

It always amuses me when I hear people saying that all strikes should be made a crime in war-time, and that all strikers should therefore be treated as any other criminals. I would myself be inclined to agree with that proposition on two conditions: That it be made to include not only workers but also owners and employers; and that really effective machinery be set up to do by process of law what labor tries to do by going on strike.

If all strikers were treated as lawbreakers and imprisoned, Henry Ford would now be languishing behind iron bars. The recent labor strike of a few days was an attempt by the men to end Ford's own strike of many months. The law of the United States plainly stated that workers in all industries were to have the

WILL WE DO IT OURSELVES?

From Toronto Globe and Mail
If this nation is to survive in a world where totalitarian organization has become so highly developed, the interests of efficiency, it must, along with the other democracies, set its house in order. We must decide to do it ourselves, and make whatever sacrifices are needed to accomplish it.

If we do this we shall be both efficient and free. If we wait long enough, refusing to give up anything or to put ourselves to any trouble; if we consult political expedience, personal, corporate or sectional advantages, we shall suffer the fate of all houses that are divided against themselves. Self-determination involves self-discipline, and if we fail to adjust ourselves to the demands of the times we shall be forced in the end to submit ourselves to a master who will put our house in order for us, and take our liberty away from us as the price of security.

LIFE'S FIFTY-FIFTINESS

I do not believe the churches can really answer the spiritual needs of this crucial hour without first studying those needs.—Dr. Eric W. Barnes, Russell Sage College.

right to join any trade union that they chose to join. The highest courts in the land upheld that law. Yet Ford refused to accept it until he was literally forced to do so by an actual stoppage of work.

It is not many months since we were reading that before war orders were accepted by the industrialists of the United States the government had first to lend these private companies the money for the necessary expansion; then agree to allow them to "write off" the entire cost of those loans in four or five years, or less if the world emergency ends so ner.

To expect "labor" to go on working for prewar wages under such circumstances, even were living costs not rising, is futile.

WHAT ARE LABOR RIGHTS?

It always seems significant to me that the more real strength that labor gains in the government of any democratic country the more surely the strike weapon is shelved, and other ways of settling wage disputes are substituted. The present Labor government of New Zealand has very greatly curtailed the "right" to strike but substituted machinery which gives the workers a far better chance of getting by judicial process what they might otherwise have had to try to get by industrial war.

Since the British Labor Party entered the Churchill-Bevin government there have been no important disputes—let alone strikes. The situation differs in North America, partly because labor has never achieved here in fact the right to organize which it is supposed to have in theory, and partly because of the considerable racketeering and subversive element in trades unions here.

To permit strikes to settle what amounts to family quarrels between the C.I.O. and A.F. of L. seems to me to border on the insane in a time of world crisis like the present. Yet just a few miles away from here we see one of the largest aircraft factories in the United States, already fully organized by the A.F. of L., having to post regular shifts of A.F. of L. guards to keep out "rival organizers." In much the same way that sentries are posted by the army.

It seems to me that the same law-making bodies which should plainly say what labor can do should equally plainly say what labor cannot do in such matters.

ATHEISM'S ILL EFFECTS

So man, when he resteth and assureth himself upon divine protection and favor, gathereth a force and faith which human nature in itself could not obtain. Therefore, as atheism is in all respects hateful, so in this, that it depriveth human nature of the means to exalt itself above human frailty. As it is in particular persons, so it is in nations.—Francis Bacon (1561-1626) in "Essays and Counsels."

CONGRATULATIONS, ARDMORE!

From Sidney Review
Ardmore Golf Club is in excellent condition, approximately 1,500 golfers used the course during the past year. There is no doubt about it, Ardmore Golf Club is a real asset to our community. It has a magnificent setting and visitors are charmed with the surroundings. The spirit of good fellowship in evidence at Ardmore also adds to the pleasure of the ancient game.
Back of the organization the members have in their secretary, W. T. Sisson, a modest unassuming genius, who ceaselessly, quietly and systematically sees that all is working like a clock well cared for. Upon Mr. Sisson a great deal depends and all concerned will agree that Ardmore has the right man in the right place. Carry on, Ardmore!

NO COCKTAILS

Some of the most beautiful gowns seen here this social season were worn by Parent-Teacher delegates at the convention. There was a social hour before the banquet, but no cocktails. Cigarette smokers were in the minority, but not enough to be conspicuous. Only one smoker lit up before the toast of the King. At a men's banquet of similar size half a dozen could be expected to make the break.

Premier Winston Churchill in the West End of London hopped into a car for a ride to BBC studio to broadcast. "Can't take you that far. I'm going home in half an hour to hear Churchill broadcast," said the driver. "Here's an extra pound if you'll drive," said Churchill. "Hop in sir, T' hell with Churchill," said the taxi man.

Surprising to some Americans, growing fewer every day, who talk of Britain's war debt to U.S.A., is the fact that at 1922 British debt to America was $5,325,000. Total U.S. debt to England was $9,540,000,000. English money was lent to southern states for railroads, canals, banks, hospitals and schools.

JOBS THROUGH SOLDIER CLUBS

Official recognition of continually-increasing importance and stability of veterans' organizations as they rise to occasion in this war—government has relegated partial employment bureau duties to them. TO USE COPIES OF BOYS' POSTER

Twenty-five thousand copies have been made of a war savings poster by Robert Allen of Central Junior High School to be distributed throughout the province. Mrs. H. S. Hurn, honorary secretary of the Vancouver Island War Savings Committee, announced today.

The poster was a prizewinner in the recent Greater Victoria schools' contest conducted by the War Savings Committee.

It was selected by Charles Banfield, King's Printer, for reproduction.

The poster has a striking scarlet background with the words: "Gear up your war effort. . . buy war savings stamps." A simple set of gears goes with the words.

The War Savings Committee headquarters on Government Street had a caller last week from California who asked for war savings literature and poster to take home with him. He was Major M. H. Epstein, surgeon in the U.S. Army, who called on behalf of his son who is attending Stanford University where he has made a permanent display of war effort posters from all parts of the Empire. Major Epstein was given 12 of the posters from the school contest and other material sent from Ottawa.

First Navy Class Will Graduate

Canada's rapidly expanding young navy will have 100 new officers at the end of this week.

After three months' hard work and study and examinations, the probationary sub-lieutenants who have been at H.M.C.S. Royal Roads will pass through the iron gates and proceed to shore establishments and ships in various parts of Canada.

Among those who have been successful in examinations are the following Victorians: A. M. P. Scaife, Thomas S. Cook, Godfrey Wenman, J. T. Dewar, J. W. R. Seale, C. P. Jones, I. H. MacDonald, A. M. H. Hodgins, D. F. McElgunn, R. M. Burns, Robert Stark, W. Bruce McGregor, Donald A. MacKenzie and S. T. Fitzpatrick.

Tomorrow afternoon the new officers will be inspected by Commodore W. J. R. Beech, R.C.N., commanding officer, Pacific Coast division, Royal Canadian Navy, after which they will be hosts to their relatives and friends at an informal reception, during which they will have an opportunity to meet the commanding officer, Commander J. M. Grant, R.C.N.

May 11 a new class of 100 young men will move in for a three-month course.

War Causes I.O.D.E. Scholars to Come Back Home

VANCOUVER (CP)—Reports showing various activities of the I.O.D.E. during the past year were read before the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter here today.

NO SCHOLARSHIPS

Miss M. L. Bollert, in an educational and war memorial report, said present conditions had increased difficulties of those entrusted with education, and that the order had presented no scholarships during the past year. Former winners had, in many cases, been forced to return home to Canada.

Miss Bollert said scholarships are needed in the correspondence course for which 870 students are now enrolled. Since 1933, she said, the I.O.D.E. has assisted 106 families to obtain 379 textbooks and 34 drawing sets. The Department of Education had distributed 3,000 copies of "Canada Within the Empire," an I.O.D.E. booklet.

Mrs. S. W. Muncey, secretary, reviewed resolutions passed during the past year. These dealt with preventing assistance to aggressor nations, internment of enemy aliens, curtailing trade with Japan, preventing Japanese from holding key positions in Canada, and preventing shipments of pulp logs and metals to Japan.

3,117 MEMBERS

Mrs. Muncey's report showed the 89 chapters in the province have a total membership of 3,117.

Mrs. K. M. Willis in her report on emergency service said the I.O.D.E. had blazed the trail in this line of war work for young women. She said she thought it advisable to discontinue this work now as other organizations are carrying on.

Mrs. L. A. Genge in a report on Girl Guides said the order was taking an increasing interest in Guiding, with interest in companies at Nelson, Kaslo, Kamloops, Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Campbell River, and West Vancouver, and Brownie Packs at Kaslo, Trail and Vernon.

Provincial I.O.D.E. Gave $10,000 to Bomber Fund

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Frank Stead, giving her presidential address at the opening session of the Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., last night reported the organization had raised $10,000 to buy fighter aircraft for Britain.

The order as a whole, she said, had raised $100,000 in a month for a bomber. Of this, British Columbia's share was $10,000. Further contributions, still to be received, are expected to total $207,707.

Mrs. Stead reported that while the order had undertaken additional war work, it had continued its peacetime activities, these included aid to the Preventorium, the V.O.N., Girl Guides, Sea Cadets and needy students and isolated schools.

A contribution from the British Columbia chapter that had been unique in Canada, had been the purchase of 1,702 pairs of Indian-made socks. The order had been made responsible for libraries for all servicemen in Canada. The latest war project was financial assistance to war guests in the province, Mrs. Stead said.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION

The president made a plea for closer co-operation among chapters and members. "All members should understand we are all in this war and must work," she said.

'Open House' Thursday At Services Canteen

The Three Services Canteen, Broad Street, will hold "open house" tomorrow afternoon from 3 till 5, to enable interested friends to see the many new improvements and additional accommodation provided recently for the men of the forces. The Salvation Army will serve coffee and doughnuts, one of the specialties of the commissariat department which has proved so popular with the men.

The Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, met in the Royal Bank Hall on Monday evening, Mrs. P. Stephen presiding. Following the business, a social evening was enjoyed; 16 tables of cards and Chinese checkers were in play and prizes awarded to the high scorer at each table. Arrangements were in charge of the Pioneers Club, which served refreshments at its close. The sewing group will meet at the home of Mrs. L. Schmelz, Finlayson Avenue, when Mrs. R. Malcolm, Mrs. F. Baillies and Mrs. F. Morris will assist the hostess.

MISS DRUSCELLA O'NEILL

The engagement is announced of Druscella, daughter of Mrs. M. E. O'Neill, and the late Dr. K. J. O'Neill, to Mr. Ralph E. Lanning, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Lanning of Vancouver, B.C., and Weymouth, England. The marriage will take place quietly Friday morning, May 9, in the Bishop's Palace, View Street, Victoria.

Social and Personal

Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, The Uplands, left last night for Quesnel, B.C., where she will adjudicate at the Cariboo district Drama Festival.

Miss Patricia Willgress has returned to her home in Vancouver after being the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Gordon Hepburn, "Cassanora," Beach Drive, for the last 10 days.

Mrs. W. Lane Holmes, Beach Drive, accompanied by her little granddaughter, Sally Laundry, returned to Victoria yesterday after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. MacDonald, in Vancouver.

Dr. Bruce Taylor will speak on his experiences in France just before its fall at tonight's meeting of the University Women's Club to be held at the home of Mrs. W. N. Gunning, 2550 Lansdowne Road, at 8.

Mrs. W. Roddick has arrived from New Westminster to be present at the marriage of her son, Staff-Sgt. Vernon Roddick, to Miss Mary Crane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crane, 1037 Lyall Street. The wedding will take place at 7 on Saturday evening, April 26, at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt.

In honor of Miss Peggy Silburn, the Misses Edna Okell and Dorothy Stanhope were joint hostesses at a tea held at the Wishbone Tearooms this afternoon. On her arrival the bride-to-be was presented with a corsage of lily of the valley and red roses. Later in the afternoon she received many useful kitchen gifts. The invited guests were: Mesdames G. Silburn, J. Tippet, J. Chambers, R. Stanhope, F. Meads, R. Davidson, W. Pollard, W. Nicholls, H. Perry, T. Boulden, W. Bray and the Misses B. Sleeman, L. Fulton, D. Hill, E. Fulton, E. Simpson, K. Rendle, G. Williams, O. Read, D. Sheret, B. Hogarth, I. Ashton, B. Talbot, O. Earl, R. Foster and J. Moyes.

HONEYMOONING—Honey-mooning at Pinehurst, N.C., are Fred Perry, British tennis star, and his bride, the former Sandra Breaux of Santa Ana, Calif. They met and were married in Mexico. Now a professional, Perry will soon start a new exhibition tennis tour.

Mrs. Chas. T. Beard of San Carlos Avenue, who is representing the Esquimalt Chapter at the Provincial I.O.D.E. meeting in Vancouver, is the guest of Mrs. Gerald Sanford during her stay in the mainland city.

Mrs. Allan Peebles and Mrs. W. C. Fyfe poured tea at the Women's Canadian Club gathering held after the meeting yesterday at the Empress Hotel. The special guests were Dr. Josef Junosza, the speaker of the afternoon; Mrs. W. B. Milburn and Miss Ruth Bawtenheimer, who were the guest artists, and the following guests: Miss M. E. Robb (Edmonton), Mrs. J. G. Smart, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, Mrs. W. G. Plett, Mrs. W. Ferguson (Toronto), Mrs. K. M. Chadwick, Mrs. James McAr (Regina), Mrs. R. B. Ferguson (Regina), Mrs. S. Burland, Mrs. G. Mulvey (Calgary), Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, Mrs. G. H. Ross, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. P. E. Taylor, Mrs. J. C. Dunbar, Miss J. Cathcart, Mrs. N. Oliver, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. J. H. Fletcher, Mrs. Bruce Hutchison, Mrs. K. C. Drury, Mrs. W. C. Fyfe, Mrs. Alma Wilson, Mrs. F. M. Bryant and Mrs. John Baxter.

Miss Thelma Speed, popular bride-to-be, was the guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. F. V. Painter and Mrs. H. Hodson at Mrs. Painter's home, 1220 Styles Street. Apple blossom, tulips and dogwood and tulips decorated the rooms. Little Marilyn Painter presented the bride-to-be with a basket decorated in pink and white, topped by a miniature bride and groom, which contained the many gifts. A corsage bouquet of carnations was also given. Miss Speed. Games and dancing were enjoyed and a buffet supper was served from a table centred with pink tulips and carnations in a cut glass bowl. The guests were Mesdames W. Campbell, B. W. Simms, Almond, Edward Campbell, Durrant, Hugh Campbell, Barbour, and Mesdames Irene, Doris, Joyce and Alma Campbell, Ena and Jean Simms, Joan Tillet, Dorothy and Janet Hodson, Lorna Speed, Myrtle and Marilyn Painter.

Judges Chosen for Decorated Tables

The three judges for the decorated tables display, which in addition to the garden tours is a highlight on the opening-day program of the Victoria Spring Garden Festival, April 30, are Viscountess Byng of Vimy, Mrs. W. H. Malkin of Vancouver and Mrs. Gilbert D. Brown of Weynatche, Wash.

Lady Byng is now living in Victoria. As chateleine of Rideau Hall, Ottawa, when her late husband was Governor-General of Canada, she had planted a rock garden of Canadian native flora. An author—she wrote "Anne of the Marshlands" and "Barriers"—and a really noted horticulturist, she is well known for her taste in floral decoration. Among the pictures of English gardens, which Mr. W. R. Reader will show on the evening of Saturday, May 3, there will be many of Lady Byng's estate in Surrey, Mr. and Mrs. Reader were there only a few short weeks before the outbreak of war, and it was photographed at its peak of summer beauty.

Mrs. W. H. Malkin, too, has a reputation for artistic floral arrangements and Mrs. Gilbert D.

708 VIEW STREET, UP FROM DOUGLAS STREETMust Defeat Nazis Now or Face Third War, Says Pole

Germany must be decisively defeated in the present conflict. There must be no peace by compromise. The leaders of the democracies must avoid the follies of Versailles. They must not forget that, because of the lack of vision of the democratic leaders of 1919, Germany was enabled to bring about this second world war. The repetition of those mistakes would permit the Hitler-dominated youth who will be the German leaders of tomorrow to employ the same arguments as their predecessors in office advanced during the last 20 years, and would bring about a third world war.

This warning was sounded by Dr. Josef Junosza, Polish refugee, in addresses given before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon and at a joint luncheon of the Kiwanis and Canadian clubs at the Empress Hotel.

GRIM PICTURE

Under the title of "Germany's New Order in Poland," this former educationist now associated with the Polish government in London, painted a grim and moving picture of the terrible lot of the Poles under Nazi domination.

"Over 200,000 Poles are now in Nazi concentration camps, and no one knows how many have died from Nazi oppression," Dr. Junosza stated. "Poles are exterminated by the hundreds through mass punishments and man hunts by the Nazis, while last winter 1,500,000 Poles were deported to the central area, many thousands dying of starvation and cold. Many Polish boys and girls were burned to death in barns fired by the hand grenades thrown by Gestapo agents, and thousands of Polish children between the ages of 7 and 14 had been taken away, no one knew where," he stated.

NO REDRESS

There is no personal safety or personal freedom in any of the German-occupied countries, continued the speaker. The aim of the Nazi persecution is to paralyze the people and to decimate the active population. There is no redress for the victims of this reign of terror; no one knows why people are arrested or executed; the only intimation the relatives of the victims receive is a laconic notice that, on payment of a sum of money, they may receive the ashes of the father, or husband, or son, or brother, as the case may be.

SEEK WORLD CONTROL

"The aim of these totalitarian states, and particularly that of Germany, is the eventual control of the world," he said. "They are attempting to gain this objective by force, and by the subjugation and abasement of all other nations and peoples over whom they gain control."

Should the totalitarian powers win this war and conquer Europe, the United States and Canada would inevitably be invaded, both by physical force and economic pressure, warned Dr. Junosza. He pointed to the presence of the fifth columns on this continent, as expressed in terms of strikes and sabotage, which, in his opinion, showed that the Communists walked shoulder to shoulder with the Nazis.

After praising the magnificent stand made against the aggressors by the British people, Dr. Junosza declared that "if to suffer defeat without surrendering is victory, then we Poles are victorious, for we are still fighting to the best of our ability, with our own fifth column in Poland. We would rather die of starvation than accept food from the United States, for fear it would go to the Nazis."

Mrs. T. H. Johns, vice-president, took the chair in the absence of Mrs. James Adam, the president. Mrs. Bruce Hutchison tendered the thanks of the gathering to the speaker. Miss Ruth Bawdenheimer was the soloist, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. B. Milburn.

GILLAN-GREEN

The wedding took place at Nanaimo, V.I., on Monday, of Olive Elizabeth, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Green, Dickenson Road, and Petty Officer Arthur James Gillan, R.C.N.R., Victoria, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gillan, Duncan, formerly of Victoria. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. G. MacDonald at the home of the bride's parents, which was massed with flowers for the occasion.

The bride was given away by her father and wore a dress of dusky rose pink crepe, and a blue picture hat, and carried a shower bouquet of rosebuds and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Green, wearing a two-toned beige ensemble, with navy accessories. The nuptial music was played by D. B. Arnett.

The bride, a native daughter of Nanaimo, is a graduate of the University of British Columbia and was formerly on the teaching staff of Nanaimo and Fernie high schools. Among many beautiful gifts from various parts of the province was a cabinet of silver, presented by the teaching staff of Fernie high school. For her going-away costume, Mrs. Gillan wore a navy blue princess suit with white accessories.

BOWES-JONES

Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn officiated at a quiet ceremony on April 21 at St. Mary's, Oak Bay, when Stephanie, only daughter of Mrs. Arthur A. Jones became the bride of Sgt. Gordon Bowes.

After the wedding the immediate relatives were entertained by the bridegroom's family. The house was gay with lilies of the valley and tulips. The wedding cake was duly cut by the bride. Sgt. and Mrs. Bowes then left for their wedding trip.

MICHAUD-TURNBULL

The marriage took place very quietly on April 10 at 7 p.m., at St. Andrew's Cathedral, between Doris Margaret, only daughter of Mr. G. T. Turnbull of "Khandu," Sidney, V.I., and Adrien Laurier Michaud, R.C.N., son of Mrs. C. Michaud and the late Mr. Wilfred Michaud of Riviere-du-Lois, Quebec.

The bride wore a navy and white ensemble with corsage of red roses and lilies of the valley. Rev. Father Cyr performed the ceremony.

The reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howcroft of Burnside Road. After receiving several presentations and toasts to their happiness the bride and groom left for Vancouver. The bride will make her home in Victoria while the groom is on naval service overseas.

"Now More Than Ever" was the subject of the address given by Mrs. W. G. Wilson to the members of the Anne Wilson Auxiliary at their Easter thank-offering meeting on Monday afternoon. Indicating briefly the world missionary situation, the speaker pointed out that the work of the W.M.S. required even greater efforts on the part of its members if the church is to be a vital force in the postwar community. The supply secretary, Mrs. James Dickson, read a list of the required hospital supplies which included one quilt, mittens, scarfs and boys' caps. These articles will be collected at the next meeting preparatory for shipment the first of June. Mrs. John Gough delighted the group with a piano selection, and Mrs. R. E. Lambe gave a summary of the work carried on by Miss A. J. Archibald in Trinidad. Mrs. Harold Timberlake, the hostess served tea, assisted by Mrs. R. Nash, Mrs. W. Stephens and Mrs. Lambe.

Weavers' Guild Will Hold Exhibition

The Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild will hold its sixth annual birthday tea and exhibition of weaving on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 in Room 301, Union Building. Demonstrations in weaving, spinning, card weaving and inkle loom weaving are being arranged and all interested persons are invited to see these demonstrations and the comprehensive exhibition of woven articles and dress and suit materials which will be on display. Members of the guild will be present to answer questions concerning weaving and to tell where materials and instruction may be obtained.

Besides dress and suit materials many useful and artistic articles will be on view. These include: bags, pillow tops, table runners, linens, draperies, rugs, belts, scarfs, bedspreads, baby blankets, etc. Because of its creative and artistic values, hand weaving has earned an important place in Canadian cultural life. It has also been of considerable economic value in many rural and urban areas, and it should have even greater possibilities under the present changing world conditions. Therefore, this tea and exhibition gives a fine opportunity for the public to see good hand weaving and to learn some thing of the wide scope covered by this most useful art.

W.A. to Britannia branch Canadian Legion have canceled the card social arranged for tomorrow.

A business meeting of the Women's Conservative Association will be held tomorrow evening at 8 at 738 Fort Street.

Victoria Women's Institute will hold a court whist on Friday at 2.15 p.m. at 635 Fort Street.

GETTING MARRIED?

by Susan Kingsley No. 2

Today's Monograms

It used to be that guests who sent presents of flatware or holloware in sterling silver or fine silverplate had the pieces engraved with the monogram of the bride. Today it is correct to use the bride's future initials. For example, if Susan Sarah Smith married David Davidson, silver is marked S. S. D.

For the linen, lingerie etc. which the bride collects as her trousseau, she still has it embroidered with her own monogram—in this case S. S. S.

If you prefer to have your flatware engraved, Community Silverplate designs lend themselves well to one or more initials. Your dealer will be able to give you sound advice as to the proper style of initial which will blend effectively with the beauty of the Community pattern you choose.

Be sure and see now the wide choice of Community patterns which your dealer has on display. Start your married life right with flatware of the finest quality. It costs so little more to buy the best—and, if preferred, budget terms can be arranged. This extra quality, featured by Community, means that your flatware will be a source of constant pleasure. Services for 8 persons, in the new Vogue Chest, are as low as $49.75.

The makers of Community Silverplate have prepared a booklet, just off the press this month, which tells the whole story of correct table service. It is titled "It's Smart to be Correct", and is ready for you FREE at your silverware dealer's.

MALAHAT BOARD HAD BUSY YEAR

SHAWNIGAN—The president, J. G. Morely, presided over a good attendance at the postponed annual meeting of the Malahat Board of Trade. Thanks were received from the federal minister of finance for a $20 donation to Canada's war effort.

Fishing is reported good, and the board expressed their desire that further action be taken to have the Millstream opened to fishing.

President Morely in reviewing the year's activities, spoke of the loss to the board of several members, and expressed his appreciation to members who had been responsible for the bringing in of several new members.

During the year the board awarded a cup for the largest weighed-in trout, won by Mr. Goode, and one cup for prize walking to Mr. and Mrs. A. Sutton.

Action was taken during the year to open the Shawigan Creek to anglers, but so far the matter was still under consideration by the authorities. On recommendation from the board early this spring, Constable Ross had been instructed to destroy some of the loons preying on trout in the lake. It had been noticed that several loons are missing from several loons are missing from the north end of the lake.

The board recommended an open season on does as a result of constant complaints from ranchers of damage done to crops. Hope was expressed, since other organizations had also taken similar action, that the Game Board would give due consideration to this when arranging the game laws for the coming season. Speaking of public works, the president was pleased to report the action of the board in securing road repairs, had accomplished one notable change, the removal of a dangerous spot, known as Walbank's Corner, and considerable road repair.

Resulting from the board's action regarding community betterment, the local health officer was investigating and improving sanitation arrangements on the lake shore.

The president recommended that the board, during the coming summer, visit several of the districts, institutions and industries and thereby secure first-hand knowledge of their operations.

In closing his report, Mr. Morely thanked the members for their co-operative spirit as displayed throughout the year.

Lecture on Flowers Of Wide Interest

Mrs. Edith Hardin English's lecture, "The Northwest in Flower," which will be one of the special features of Victoria's annual Spring Garden Festival next week, is a personal testimony of botanical knowledge and exploration.

All the pictures she will show she has taken herself, and they cover native flowers that are difficult to find and becoming increasingly rare.

Living in Seattle, Mrs. English has explored the Olympics and Cascades and the reaches east of the mountains in her search for native flowers at all seasons of the year. She will speak at 8.30, May 1, in the Princess Louise room and because accommodation is limited those who wish to hear her would be well advised to get their tickets early from Mrs. Hammond, who will be at the information desk at the Empress Hotel, April 30, opening day of the festival, and throughout the week.

The Alps, the Carpathians, the Apennines, and the Caucasus, all are mountains located on the moon, as well as the earth.

Winners of the Governor-General's Literary Awards for the best works of poetry, fiction and general literature published by Canadians during 1940, as announced by the Canadian Authors' Association. From left to right: J. F. C. Wright, Ottawa, General Literature (photo by Karsch); Dr. Philippe Panneton, Montreal, Fiction; and E. J. Pratt, Toronto, Poetry.

OTTAWA (CP) — J. F. C. Wright, who took a job as night fireman in an Ottawa oil plant as a change from writing has been awarded the Governor-General's Literary Award for 1940, in the general literature section. The award, which is announced by the Canadian Authors' Association, was on Mr. Wright's prose non-fiction work, "Slava Bohu," an interpretation of the Dookhobors as one of Canada's minority races.

The award for fiction goes to Dr. Philippe Panneton of Montreal for his "Thirty Acres," adjudged the best novel by a Canadian to appear in the calendar year 1940. His story deals with a typical habitant of Quebec.

Professor E. J. Pratt of Toronto receives the poetry award for "Brobeuf and His Brethren," relating the martyrdom of Jesuit missionaries in Huronia. Dr. Pratt won the Governor-General's award for poetry also in 1937.

VARIED CAREERS

J. F. C. Wright, who won the general literature award, was born in Wiltshire, England, brought up on a farm near Minnedosa, Man., and was educated in the local schools. He worked as a bank clerk, was a stoker on a sea-going vessel, a farmhand, and roughed it in construction gangs and in the Alberta oilfields. Joining the staff of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, he served there for seven years, meeting Vergerin, the Dookhobor leader, in the course of his job, and learning much of the sect and its objectives. Then he took a post as fireman in an Ottawa oil plant but plans to go west again and study the Ukrainians, for another book.

Dr. Panneton, who writes under the pen-name, "Ringuelet," is an eye specialist in Montreal. He studied in Paris in 1920-25 and returned to Canada to practice. In 1929 he began his "Thirty Acres," on which he spent 10 years. When it was published in Paris, it received the Grand Prix du Roman of the French Academy, the Prix du Roman Regional (Girard), and the Prix des Vikings. In 1940 the book appeared from Toronto in the English translation of Felix and Dorthea Walter. It has also been translated into German, Dutch and Spanish.

The annual flower show will be held August 20 and a silver tea on May 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen, Marshwood, when visitors are asked to wear an emblem depicting a well-known song.

Mrs. V. Franklin was chosen hall and linen convener. Mrs. E. Jeffery read an educational paper entitled, "The Allies Help in the Common Cause." Mrs. E. H. Phipps and Mrs. V. Franklin were tea hostesses. Under the auspices of the Esquimalt Dramatic Club a dance and social evening will be held in Langford Women's Institute Hall, Dunford Road, Saturday, May 2 at 8.30.

The medals, carrying the Canadian coat-of-arms and suitable inscriptions, will be presented at the Authors' convention at Vancouver in August. For 1939 the awards were: General Literature, Laura Goodman Salverson, Winnipeg; "Confessions of an Immigrant's Daughter"; fiction, Franklin Davey McDowell, Toronto; "The Champlain Road"; poetry, Arthur S. Bourinot, Ottawa, "Under the Sun."

WARDENS ENROLLED IN FAIRFIELD AREA

Fairfield district last night answered the appeal of Capt. M. Godfrey, Work Point staff officer, for volunteer A.R.P. workers with the enrolment of scores to assist in civilian protection activity in that area.

The appeal was made at a public meeting in Sir James Douglas School auditorium, where over 100 residents were assembled. Chief of Police J. A. McLellan and Capt. Wm. Ellis, chief A.R.P. officer for Victoria, attended the session, over which W. F. Loveland, district warden, presided.

The dangers of complacency and the need to be ready for any emergency were stressed by Capt. Godfrey.

Mr. Loveland explained the mechanics of the A.R.P. scheme, outlining the manner in which the area was divided into 19 districts of eight sections each. He emphasized the need for more wardens to assist the patrol leaders in each section.

Residents were advised to become acquainted with the leaders in their particular locality and to look over their attics with a view to removing any materials which might constitute a menace in the event of an emergency.

During the meeting Charles Pearce, safety adviser of the provincial Department of Labor, demonstrated the "skullguard," favored by the department in its efforts to reduce accidents in logging camps.

Hubert Lethaby and A. H. Marion, patrol leaders, also spoke during the evening.

Father Mangan Lake Hill Pastor

Rev. Father Thomas J. Mangan has been installed as parish priest of Sacred Heart Church, Lake Hill, which also includes the Roman Catholic Church at Strawberry Vale.

Bishop John C. Cody officiated at installation ceremonies Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large congregation.

Father Mangan, a native of Lindsay, Ont., was ordained in 1927 by the late Cardinal Hayes of New York. He studied at Collegiate Institute in Lindsay and St. Mary's College, Brockville, and then went to Mount St. Alphonsus, Esopus, New York.

Returning to Canada, Father Mangan conducted missions across the country and recently was pastor of St. Alphonsus Parish in Edmonton.

Saanichton Tulips Will Be Displayed

A display of magnificent tulips from the Dominion Government Experimental Farm at Saanichton will feature Saturday's annual tulip show of the Victoria Horticultural Society at the Crystal Garden.

The tulips at the farm are just now at their finest and on Friday evening and early Saturday morning members of the outdoor staff will gather dozens of blooms and transport them to the garden for display.

There will be a wealth of bloom at this second Victoria flower show of the season. Amateur gardeners have been watching their tulips for days, nursing them along so that they may win prizes. There will be other flowers on display as well as tulips. Wallflowers and valley lilies will have prominent places, as will potted plants and miniature shrubs.

German Money Here But Has No Value

German mark notes are around town, pre-war money printed in the days of the Kaiser, but now worthless. They were found secreted in the wall of an old Victoria house that was being demolished a few weeks ago.

Among the money is a 100-mark bill, blue in color and printed in April, 1910. On the left

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a laxative but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

edge of the note is a picture of the Kaiser and to the right of this, printing in German.

Many notes, of all denominations, were discovered. These have been distributed among various people in town but they will never be spent. They are worth no more than the post-war inflated money that was printed in "million" denominations or the paper which the Nazis now use as exchange.

STRAWBERRY VALE

In connection with the special effort being made by the Strawberry Vale Women's Institute to have the water supply installed in the Colquitz Community Hall, a card party was held in Colquitz Hall under convener'ship of Mrs. C. VETERANS READY WHEN CALL COMES

Canada's 300,000 veterans of the first Great War could exert a powerful influence in encouraging and supporting the men who compose the new navy, army and air force, Defence Minister Ralston said in Ottawa at the annual dinner of the Ottawa Red Chevron Association.

Col. Ralston replied to the toast to the forces of the present war, proposed by Brig.-Gen. H. F. McDonald, now chairman of the Canadian pensions commission and one of the first 30,000 to go overseas in the first Great War.

Gen. McDonald said there are "100,000 men in this country ready to go when the call comes."

Col. Ralston said that 60 per cent of the officers in key positions with Canada's new forces were veterans, and the large percentage of those present at the dinner in uniform indicated that

Jack Schan now is in England with the Canadian (Active) Army; Nick is at Nanaimo; Leonard is in Edmonton, and Jim and Leo are in Calgary. Joe has been honorably discharged.

Former Victorian Does Good Job

The following illustrated story in the Montreal Standard is of interest to Victorians:

"Canada is helping Britain win the Battle of the Atlantic by refitting and repairing, in her unbombarded ports, the grey warships of the Royal Canadian and allied navies, and the sturdy merchant freighters that are fighting it."

"To do the job a big staff works night and day. A ship may get damaged in battle or in a heavy storm, when hundreds of tons of water thunder down on her deck. All guns must be checked after a certain number of rounds have been fired, stocks of ammunition replenished, equipment worn out or lost must be replaced. All this is unspectacular, but, without doubt, one of the most important parts of the war at sea."

"Nothing must be left to chance in this job," says Commander V. S. Godfrey, R.C.N., inspector of naval ordnance. "We cannot afford to pass a gun because it looks all right. It must be rigidly inspected and the gun crews drilled and questioned to see that they are up to the mark."

"Experts know just where to look for trouble that might handicap a warship at sea. They realize, too, an hour's delay might give an enemy the advantage."

Commander Godfrey is a son-in-law of Mrs. Laura Hardie, 634 Michigan Street. Several times he has been based at the Esquimalt station of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Island Districts Aid War Services

Shawnigan and Cobble Hill districts have turned in more than $1,000 to the War Services drive, with more expected still. So reports Lieut.-Col. F. T. Oldham, director of the staff of canvassers.

Returns by districts follow: Old Victoria Road and Island Highway North, $48; Cherry Point, $42; Shawnigan Lake South, $63.50; Hillbank and Bench, $71.25; Old Telegraph Road, $33.85; Shawnigan Lake, $152.72; Mill Bay and Quarry Point, $309; Cobble Hill, $39.50; Island Highway South, $28.50; Cowichan Station and Cameron-Toggart Road, $13. These figures represent a total of $801.32 in cash and pledges, but do not include the Bamberston donation of $120 sent direct to Victoria, nor the $86.90 from the Cobble Hill High School entertainment.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Leask in lending her home, "Quarry Point," Mill Bay, for a card party, the Catholic Women's League were able to add a satisfying sum towards the purchase of a war bond. Twelve tables were in play and winners were as follows: Bridge, Mrs. Bloomquist and Mr. Minnhnick; cribbage, Mrs. H. G. Grainger and Mr. N. R. Johnston; whist, Miss Weicker and Mr. Rey.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE

From Calgary Herald

It is a well-known fact that the farms in the prairie provinces are getting weedier every year. While consistent summerfallowing controls the weeds, the seeding of land down to grass for a period of several years accomplishes far more towards that objective.

It may be that the need for curtailing wheat production at the present time will be a blessing in disguise to the farmers of western Canada. Better care of the land and better farming practices may result from the drastic curtailment of wheat acreage. The land is the greatest resource in western Canada, and the proper preservation of its fertility should be the concern of every farmer.

Found Soldier's Death Accidental

Verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday afternoon by a coroner's jury at the inquest on Private C. W. Johnston, Blackpool, B.C., near Kamloops, who was killed in an accident just beyond the crest of the Four-Mile Hill Saturday.

The jury brought in a rider recommending in the interests of safety that distance between trucks in army convoys be increased.

Major Roy Huggard, officer in charge of military hospital, testified the soldier was dead on arrival. He had sustained a serious head injury.

Private Lawrence McFadden, driver of the convoy truck in which Pte. Johnston was killed, and Ptes. J. F. Rooney and J. L. Geddes were injured, said his truck, carrying 16 soldiers, was the third in a convoy line proceeding toward town. He said the truck in front of him swerved to the left to avoid a cyclist and when he had done likewise he saw an Island Freight Service truck coming down the hill in the other direction. He said he cut sharply to the right to avoid being hit, but his rear-view mirror and the one in the other vehicle collided.

HAD CLOSE BRUSH WITH DEATH

According to Pte. Cecil Longmore's testimony he narrowly escaped grave injury. He was sitting between Rooney and Johnston. At the time of the accident he was crouched, shielding the flame of a match to light his cigarette. After the accident he found Rooney injured on his one side and Johnston on his other with a badly smashed face.

Pte. Roy Bower, driver of the fourth truck, said he was 60 feet behind McFadden. He saw McFadden swing to the left because of the cyclist, and almost instantly swing back to the right again.

At this time he said he saw the Island Freight truck proceeding in the opposite direction, trying to avoid a truck parked on the side of the road. When the freight truck got past the parked one and turned to the right again the top of it seemed to sway and catch the iron hoops on the rim of the army machine. He did not notice whether No. 3 army truck or the freight truck had been over the yellow line at the time. The convoy was traveling at approximately 30 miles an hour at the time.

James Wight, driver of the Island Freight Service truck, stated he was on his way to Langford. After he had gone around the parked Chinaman's truck he passed the first convoy vehicle. He saw the second swing out and immediately behind this one another swung out. Wight said he pulled over sharply but could not avoid the swipe which occurred. He said that when he passed the second truck his right wheels were on the shoulder of the right side of the road.

John Wood, swamper in the freight truck, who was in the front seat with the driver, said the third truck pulled out when he saw the cyclist, and the collision resulted.

Constable M. L. Beggallie gave measurements. The road, he said, was 18 feet wide. Damage was slight to both vehicles, he said. The freight truck's mirror was nearly torn off, the left front shoulder of the van was slightly dented and the whole left side slightly scratched. The mirror on the army truck was broken and two iron bars looped over the rear of the truck were badly bent. (It is believed these bars caused the injuries to the three soldiers.)

The question was raised as to what happened to the cyclist. The police said he never was found.

Dr. Hart, summing up, said the why and wherefore was simple. The Chinese truck should have been parked completely off the road, but he found the cyclist the cause of the mishap. He said from long observation he had found the average motorist was frightened of cyclists and gave them far more room when passing them than they gave a car.

There was an error on the part of the convoy driver in cutting over too far—but it may have been that he was compelled to do so by the cyclist, Dr. Hart said.

Members of the jury were Hugh Aylmer (foreman), Hugh Francis, Archie McKernon, George Shingles, William Chirside and Robert G. McEwan. Roy Manzer appeared for Wight.

Saanich Board of Trade

Asks for Tolerance Of Canada's War Work

A plea for a spirit of tolerance for those at the head of Canada's war effort was made by Lieutenant Alan Chambers, M.P., in speaking before the annual banquet of the Saanich Board of Trade at the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall last night.

Lieutenant Chambers replied to a toast proposed by L. Thomson "To the Dominion and Provincial Governments," which was also replied to by Hon. Norman W. Whittaker, Speaker of the British Columbia Legislature.

Toasts, dining and entertainment lasted for nearly four and a half hours. M. Atkins, president of the Board of Trade, was chairman. Proceeds from the evening were donated to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

In his plea for wholehearted support of the government, Lieutenant Chambers referred to criticisms by J. E. Sladen in a toast "To the Navy, Army and Air Force," of the one-month and four-month compulsory military training schemes.

"We have declared war against the biggest army in the world and then go about training troops in such short time to fight that army. Something is wrong," Mr. Sladen said.

Lieutenant Chambers said: "It does not behoove us to say 'Why aren't they doing this and why aren't they doing that' but we should say 'What is there I can do' and 'In what other ways can I help'."

The federal member said a unified faith in ultimate victory would result in the whole efforts of the country being thrown into the fight.

In his reply to Mr. Sladen's toast to the "Navy, Army and Air Force," Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown said he did not think the Dominion was doing as much as she could from a military point of view.

Advocates conscription. "The only way to face the crisis is through conscription of all man power," the retired army officer said. "We can raise more troops in this country—good ones, too."

He paid tribute to the three services in the present battle, adding words of praise for the mercantile marine and the auxiliary services like the A.R.P.

Going back to the war effort in Canada, Brigadier Brown said although the east and middle sections of the country were secure, he did not like the situation on the Pacific Coast.

The possibilities of Japan striking at Canada in the west were strong, he said, and when the Japanese came they would come in fast cruisers striking at Vancouver Island where defences were not strong enough.

LIGHTEN THE LOAD

"It is up to us to do all we can to lighten the load on the governments in these times of stress," said Mr. Thomson in the toast "To the Dominion and Provincial Governments."

He referred to R. W. Mayhew, M.P., as a "wonder man" who had caused many millions of dollars to be diverted west.

In adding to Lieutenant Chambers' reply to this toast, Mr. Whittaker gave a contrast of early conditions in Greater Victoria and the city's present booming situation. He said he believed people would continue to flock to Victoria to live after the war was over and added that the provincial government was going to spend $25,000 on improvements to the east and west Saanich roads.

CHEAP TAXES

W. O. Wallace proposed a toast "To the Saanich Municipality," in which he described the conditions of the district in the old days when taxes on land amounted only to 25 or 50 cents an acre.

The municipal council was making a great effort to keep the taxes down, but "it can't succeed in its efforts unless we co-operate," Mr. Wallace said.

In reply, Reeve Leslie Passmore spoke at length on the Saanich well-drilling system. The Reeve asked all residents to find out about the system before offering criticism. Councillor J. L. Hobbs supported Reeve Passmore's remarks.

DEPEND ON EACH OTHER

Nathaniel Gray, in proposing a toast "To the City of Victoria," said the interests of Saanich and Victoria were so great the two districts depended on each other. In replying, Alderman Burgess Gadsden said he would like to see the city and municipalities governed by one representative council rather than being separated.

There was considerable unjust criticism of the Reeve and councillors who worked untiringly with little or no remuneration, said W. C. Kersey, in proposing a toast "To the Neighboring Municipalities."

GREAT INCREASE IN LIBRARY USE

Increased largely by the addition of Saanich readers and those of the various forces, the Victoria Public Library's new registrations during the first quarter of this year were approximately 44 per cent above those who registered during the similar period in 1940, according to a statistical compilation issued this week by the library.

New users listed from January 1 to March 31 of this year brought the total registration to that date to 24,668, a number 17 per cent above that listed at March 31 last year.

Circulation figures showed a steady growth in the reading habits of the people here. Adult fiction increased 16 per cent; adult non-fiction 8 per cent; and juvenile fiction 26 per cent. The total number of books issued was 100,502, compared with 86,942 for the three-month period a year ago, an increase of 15 per cent. The greatest increase was noted in applied science.

During the first quarter of the year the library added 1,750 volumes to its collection against 786 secured in the equivalent months last year. This year 591 books have been discarded against 617 in the first quarter of 1940. Books in stock now total 56,927 volumes. Costs of books ordered during the 1941 quarter was listed at $5,166.37 against $4,897 last year. The increase was largely attributable to an expenditure of $1,220 for new children's books to serve Saanich. Last year $743 only had been spent on that department's stock at March 31.

Metochosin Flower Show

Metochosin unit of the Red Cross, held its annual flower show, April 16, in Metochosin hall. Alderman D. D. McTavish and W. H. Warren, judged the exhibits. The show was opened by Mrs. Debney, of Edmonton, introduced by the president of the unit, Mrs. H. S. Jordan.

There were two beautiful floral displays, one made by Mr. Beckingham. Metochosin, of Alpines, potted rhododendrons and various rare species. Superintendent Woods of the Experimental Farm, Saanichton, gave a display entirely composed of superlatively handsome tulips. Tea-table arrangements provided a special competition which was judged by Miss E. Humby. Prizes were won by Miss Norma Mutter and the Misses Cecilia and Rosamund Milne, and the first prize was donated by Mrs. Jordan, the second by Mrs. W. Whitney-Griffiths.

Mrs. R. B. Jenkins presided at the home-cooking booth, and her helpers were Mrs. Fergus Reid, Mrs. Debney and Miss Diana Jenkins. W. L. Mackenzie and C. E. Whitney-Griffiths helped arrange the contests and Mrs. Brake drew winners.

Mrs. R. F. Mathews was presented with the Red Cross Challenge Cup for the largest aggregate number of points in the show, and Mr. Catling was runner-up. In the children's section, Anthea Kearley won first prize for rock gardens, Bernard Whitney-Griffiths for corsage bouquet and Raymond Clapham for buttonholes.

A MAN YOU TRUST

You often ask your grocer what he thinks, when you do your marketing. You know he knows what most of his customers prefer.

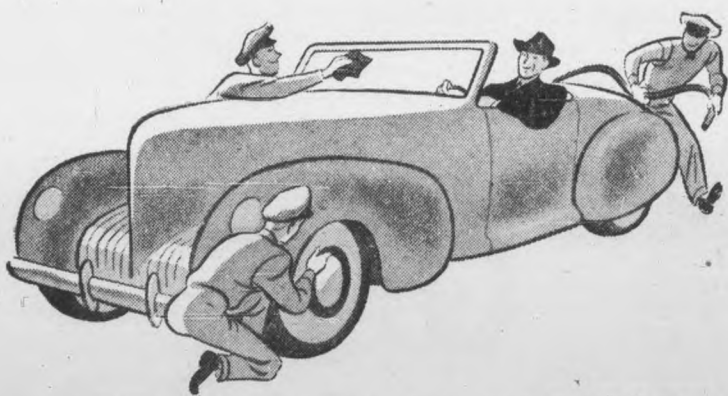

If you bake bread at home—ask your grocer what fresh yeast most women like best. He'll tell you it's dependable Fleischmann's Yeast—Canada's favorite for 70 years. It gives you light, sweet, smooth-textured bread every time!

HOW FIT ARE YOU for today's "War on Nerves?" Often you can help restore normal pep with more Vitamin B₁. Try eating Fleischmann's fresh Yeast. It is one of nature's richest storehouses of this vitamin and all the B Complex Vitamins. Eat one cake first thing in the morning, another 1/2 hour before supper—every day!

PESTERED BY HIGH PRESSURE?

...TRY THE UNION MINUTE MEN

HIGH SPEED BUT NO HIGH PRESSURE!

The only "high pressure" the Minute Men use is the pressure they put into polishing glass. Their service is adjusted to fit each customer's schedule.

If you're in a hurry, they rush you through in nothing flat! If you have more time they check your car carefully from stem to stern. In either case, you get high speed but no high pressure. Try them.

You have to Buy a BICYCLE on FAITH

Very few can tell the quality of materials, the accuracy of machining, the skill of workmanship

WHEN you buy a bicycle you buy it on faith without any means of judging its hidden value or the sort of service it will give you in the years to come.

Therefore, your very best guide to satisfaction in buying a bicycle is to buy a C.C.M. which enjoys a fine reputation for performance built up over 40 years of faithful service to cyclists around the world.

The good name of C.C.M. is your guarantee that when you buy a C.C.M. Bicycle you will get correct design, fine steels, precision machining, careful fitting, complete brazing, durable enamelling, heavy plating and many other hidden qualities the eye cannot appraise. Every C.C.M. is equipped with Dunlop Tires.

So when you buy a bicycle on faith, as you must, buy one bearing the C.C.M. name-plate, and be sure of long years of easy-running, trouble-free cycling.

See the new models at your nearest C.C.M. dealer's and choose your favorite.

Time payments may be arranged for a small extra charge... Ask your dealer for a catalogue.

Like Four Horses For Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Bluegrass hardhats predict a four horse race in the $75,000-added May 3 Kentucky Derby.

The "smart" boys list these four: Porter's Cap, Whirlaway, Our Boots, King Cole.

Otherwise, say the hardhats, the more than 100 thoroughbreds nominated will be just so many also rans, if their owners send any of them against these four.

The bluegrass stakes at Keeneland Thursday probably will determine whether Whirlaway's or Our Boots' odds drop in the prederby betting books. It will be a mile and an eighth.

The 250-pound dragon of Komodo, world's largest known lizard, became known to science as late as 1914.

New Houses To Be Temporary

OTTAWA (CP)—All houses erected by the Wartime Housing Limited will be temporary structures, designed for life after the war, Joseph M. Piggott of Hamilton told the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities at the opening of its fourth annual conference here.

Mr. Piggott is president of Wartime Housing Ltd., the government corporation set up to build houses to relieve wartime congestion.

"The company will build only where there is a definite and acute shortage of housing due to the employment of additional numbers of people on munitions and defence projects," said Mr. Piggott.

Also it would build only where private capital was not available or was unable to build because of the temporary character of the project.

They would be designed to provide the greatest possible salvage value after the war, and to this end they would probably be demountable and made of sections bolted together.

Salt Spring

GANGES — Following the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital at Ganges on Wednesday afternoon last, Mr. W. M. Mouat, president of the board, presented A. J. Eaton, treasurer, with an engraved silver-covered sandwich dish to mark the occasion of his recent marriage and in recognition of his many years of valued service as treasurer.

Mrs. W. Scott Ritchie of 1218 Victoria Street, Victoria, is spending a few weeks at Ganges.

Raymond Seymour of Washington Avenue, Victoria, was a week-end guest of Mr. J. Anderson, Ganges Harbor.

Miss Pat Roberts has returned to Victoria after a week's visit to her grandmother, Mrs. G. Boradale, Ganges Harbor.

Regular monthly meeting of the Salt Spring Island branch of the Women's Auxiliary on Friday, April 18, at the home of Mrs. Edward Walter at Ganges Harbor, took the form of a small miscellaneous sale and tea, following the short business session at which Mrs. H. Moorhouse presided. After some discussion it was decided to invite the members of St. George's Church Altar

Continue to Fight Says Greek King

ATHENS (AP)—The text of the proclamation issued today by King George of Greece follows: The hard destinies of war compel us to get away from Athens together with the Crown Prince and lawful government of the country and to transfer the capital of the country to Crete, whence we shall be able to continue the fight which is the will of the nation and the duty of safeguarding the independence and integrity imposed upon us and undertaken after unprovoked aggressions of which we have been the object by two empires.

Our will, the will of the government and of the Greek people having been manifested in various ways so far means resistance to the end on the part of Greek troops which, despite the unequal fight, particularly after the German invasion, have stubbornly fought beside the English Allies who rushed help to us and are still fighting on Greek territory for the sake of the right cause.

GLORIOUS PAGES

Our troops, exhausted by the hard and victorious war which they had been waging for six months against a much stronger enemy and having written the most glorious pages of our military history, continued the fight against the Germans with inconceivable heroism.

We do not yet know in what conditions exactly our army of Epirus has been found and signed an armistice with the enemy without our knowing it.

This act in no way binds the free will of the nation, the king and the government, which consists of a continuation of the struggle with all remaining forces with a view to securing the supreme national interests.

Guided to co-operate with the W.A. and St. Mary's Altar Guild of South Salt Spring Island in their annual summer sale and garden fête. At the sale, Mrs. Stacey, presided at the stall of home cooking preserves, etc., while Mrs. H. A. Robinson sold flowers and plants. Tea was served by Mrs. Walter, Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Byron. Mrs. W. K. Schellfield was the winner of a dresser set, for which tickets were sold during the afternoon.

KING GEORGE II of Hellenes

FINAL VICTORY

Being compelled to proceed to Crete, I do it only in order to continue the fight against the invaders until the final victory which will crown all the great sacrifices of the nation.

Do not lose your courage, Greeks, even during this painful moment of our history. We shall always be among you.

The right of our struggle and God will help us to secure by the means final victory in spite of the trials, pains and dangers which we shall go through in the meantime.

Remain faithful to the idea of a united and undivided, free country. Intensify your will, oppose Greek pride to enemy force and enemy temptations. Have courage—good days will come again. Long live the nation.

Tricky Cats

Cats do not display affection only for those who like them, but may ignore fond masters and shower their affections upon visitors who detest them.

First Illustrated Book

The first book known to have illustrations was the "Book of the Dead," really a set of papyrus rolls, written 15 centuries before Christ.

Great Food Purchases
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Agriculture Department has announced the purchase of 40,418,884 pounds of pork products and 21,718,400 pounds of lard for domestic relief distribution and British-aid programs.

Other food purchases announced include 3,018,600 pounds of cheese and 55 tons of grapes. A portion of the cheese, like the pork products, is expected to be turned over to Britain.

When Poisons Clog KIDNEYS and Irritate Bladder

Clean Them Out For 40 Cents

Go to your drugstore today and get this safe, swift and harmless diuretic and stimulant—safe for GOLD MEDAL Haaslium Oil Capsules (Dutch Drops in Capsules) and start at once to flush kidneys of waste matter saturated with acids and poisons.

That's a good way to bring about healthy kidney activity and relieve that bladder irritation which often causes scanty passages with smarting and burning as well as restless nights. Remember, the kidneys often need cleaning as well as the bowels, and some symptoms of kidney weakness may be getting up once or twice during the night—puffy eyes—cramps in leg—backache and moist palms.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haaslium Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—packed in Canada—the price is small (40 cents), the good results will fulfill your expectations.

BUY WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Canadian waters are not only a prolific source of good food for our tables, but contribute in important measure to our export trade. It takes a great army of workers—fishermen, canning hands, executives—to catch and market the "silver horde." No sporting pastime is this, but toil and business of great importance to the nation. The Bank of Montreal co-operates with the FISHERIES' industries by furnishing the specialized types of banking services they need. It is the banking home of thousands of hardy fishermen who have savings or chequing accounts.

Serving Canadians and their industries in every section of the community, we invite you to discuss YOUR banking requirements with us.

VICTORIANS who patronized the hockey games at the Willows arena back in 1912-13 will be interested to learn that Walter Small, one of the original players to be brought to the Pacific coast by the Patricks, is still hale and hearty in Montreal. Small, who played with the old Victoria Aristocrats, was imported to the coast back in 1911 along with Skinner Poulin, Dubby Kerr and Bobby Rowe.

Following is an interview recently published in the Montreal Star:

The man on the next stool sipped his coffee slowly in mid-afternoon. He wore hat and overcoat. It was cold without, a bleak February day. The eternal cold of a Montreal winter.

"Too bad about Gordy dying," he said at last, "Gordy Davidson."

"Yes, he must have been a great athlete."

Walter Small put down his cup and said: "I'll say he was."

"I remember him on the coast almost 30 years ago. What a padder. Once we held a regatta at Victoria. Gordy cleaned up in every event."

"Do you know what? He was a paddling 'import.' I never heard of another."

Not usually a man of maudlin thought, Walter Small then went away back 30 years through six minutes and three cups of coffee.

"You know, I went to the coast to play hockey for Lester in 1911. I went with Skinner Poulin, Dubby Kerr and Bobby Rowe. Bobby was from Barry and Renfrew. Don Smith went along, too. I think about the same time."

"We went out to play for $1,500, which was more than we were making in the east. We were going into a big regatta. Our chief rival was the St. James BA Club. The St. James president said he had a man who would be the sensation of the meet."

"The day of the meet came, and who do you suppose their star was. None other than Gordy Davidson, whom I had known well here in Montreal."

"Another cup of coffee, miss?"

"What he was doing so far from home?" we asked.

"Well, it seems this president of the St. James Club saw him at Revelstoke and invited him to come to the coast for the meet, all expenses paid. Gordy was doing some construction work there and this St. James man recognized him as he was passing through."

"Well, I was surprised to see him. I went up to him and said 'Hello, you pro.' I'm only out here on a holiday," he laughed. Yes, I know all about that, I told him."

Walter Small drained his second cup and went on. "That day he won the single, tandem and fours, and then challenged two famed Siwash Indians to a matched tandem race. The Indians were willing, but the Siwash chief wanted a $20 side bet, and Gordy refused to paddle for a wager."

Walter was in his third cup now and properly warmed up. "Yes, we had quite a time out there. I was there for five years. We went out in August of 1911. The Patricks were building the rinks at Victoria and Vancouver. Both rinks went up at the same time, so we went to the contractor for jobs—Poulin, Kerr and Rowe and I. We bought canvas aprons with pockets, T-squares, chisels and hammers. We helped build the rink to play in at 50 cents an hour."

Walter Small found carpentering more hazardous than playing hockey. He almost lost his life helping to build the Victoria rink. Both were designed by Frank Patrick. They were wood structures. The Vancouver rink had a gallery.

"It was far ahead of the times," said Frank the other day.

They were the first artificial ice rinks in Canada. The Toronto Arena Garden was built in 1913—two years later.

Walter Small said: "I almost fell from the roof, about a 60-foot drop to the ground. I happened to catch a scantling and there I hung with my feet dangling over the edge. Finally they lassoed my legs and hauled me up to safety."

"I was sick for three days. It was that close."

After that Walter helped install the first ice-making system.

"We helped lay 15 miles of pipes. When we got them down, they had a test and found about 150 leaks. We had threaded the pipe-ends the wrong way, though a plumbing inspector was supposed to be overseeing the job. We weren't very good plumbers."

The Victoria rink seated around 5,000, and twice that many could crowd into the Vancouver rink. Both have since burned down and neither was rebuilt. There is talk of a new rink in Victoria.

"They were great days," said Walter Small. "Wonderful country. If my friends and relatives hadn't been here, I would have stayed. Hardly any snow. I only saw it once there and a farmer drove a sleigh into town in the early morning to win a $25 prize from the Times. When he started home all the snow was gone, but he had the prize which had stood for five years."

"The day I almost fell off the Victoria rink, the sports writer of the Times was there. 'Walter, I thought you were done for,' he told me."

Walter said when he wasn't playing, he refereed games between other teams.

"In the Vancouver rink there was a fan who sat up by the clock. He never stopped hooting me. He called me awful names but never in bad language. He kept it up for four years. He was an American."

"Finally, Frank Patrick had him called down to the office to ask him why he was always riding me. 'I keep riding him because I can't get his goat,' he said. Frank told him 'Well, you better stop it.'"

Said Walter: "He couldn't get my goat for every time I came out on the ice I would look up at him and wave a greeting. That burned him up."

He was preparing to move away from his stool now. "Yes, it was a great country. I worked for a lumber company. You think the Chinese are small people. Well, we had them there six feet. Up to six feet four inches."

"They could throw a tree around, two of them. And you know how big the trees grow out there. It's a great country, but I'll always remember hanging over the edge of that rink in Victoria."

Feller Warns Pitch Stealers

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bob Feller warned American League pitchers today to stop calling his throws or half their clubs "will be in the hospital."

The 22-year-old strikeout king made it plain he wouldn't toss any "bean balls"—but that the result might be serious if an opposing batter were looking for a curve and got a blazing fast ball which didn't "break" when it reached his head.

Rapid Robert's thoughts were focused particularly on the third base coaching boxes occupied by those astute baseball observers, coach Mule Haas of Chicago and manager Del Baker of Detroit.

Has told the White Sox what to expect when they beat Feller on opening day, 4 to 3, and Baker frequently called them the Tigers last season although Feller beat the Bengals Saturday, 2 to 1.

"I always knew they could tell what I was going to throw but they didn't try to call until last year," Feller observed.

"I hold my fast ball a little differently than I do my curve, and I wasn't covering my hand up enough with my glove," he said. "I've changed that now, and while the position is a little unnatural I have just as much stuff."

Mad Scramble Pays $530.80

Double Worth $3,610

SAN MATEO, Cal. (AP)—A two-dollar mutual bet on Mad Scramble, a four-year-old chestnut filly, returned $530.80 on the second race at Bay Meadows track yesterday and on the daily double with Valinda Bishop in the third returned $3,610.80.

Mad Scramble paid $101 to place and $49.60 to show.

Valinda Bishop, winner of the third race, returned $15, $7.20 and $4.80.

Augeas, running at Agua Caliente on February 14, 1933, set the west coast record for a $2 win bet, returning $840.

W. C. Riggs, owner of Mad Scramble, said he bet $2 on his horse.

Expect Hockey Finish

Sydney Heavy Choice

SASKATOON (CP)—The Allan Cup finals may end tonight with Sydney Millionaires taking the Canadian senior hockey championship in three straight games, but you can never tell with a fighting young club like Regina Rangers.

You would not think there was much doubt left after Sydney won the first game 8 to 6 and the second 8 to 3 and Millionaires go into the third game here tonight as odds-on favorites to finish off the series in another 60 minutes.

The only factor that is not predictable is what may happen when the Regina club that Freddy Metcalfe molded gets on to the ice. Rangers surprised everyone in their own league, and they kept rolling to win the western title.

GET NO BREAKS

Rangers did not get any of the breaks in the first two games.

Collapse of Detroit Mystery of Baseball

Charlie Holmes Bowling Winner

With an average of 179 Charlie Holmes headed the Olympic Commercial Tenpin League averages for the season. Holmes takes possession of the Ferguson trophy and first prize money. Harold Paulding, Red Lawson, Percy Sherritt and Wilf Johnson, all had better averages, but being senior bowlers were not eligible for the award.

Claude Beltrage was runner-up with a mark of 177. High single game for the season was turned in by Barney Bryan with 264. Bill Hancock took the high three games with 641.

Modern Shoe took the league championship after a close play-off with C.I.L. Dynamiters.

Annual league wind-up was held last week at the alleys with Don McDermott presenting the prizes. The new officers follow:

President, Charlie Holmes; honorary vice-presidents, Harry Maynard and Don McDermott; secretary, Bill Holmes; executive, Percy Sherritt and Frank Barrie. The 25 leading players in the averages follow:

Mrs. F. J. Eves Wins

Medal at Colwood

With a card of 106-35-71, Mrs. F. J. Eves won medal honors in the qualifying round of the Dr. Luden spring cup tournament at the Colwood Golf Club yesterday.

Mrs. B. H. Anderson was second with 98-20-78. Mrs. A. Dowell and Mrs. A. Gonnason tied for third with net scores of 82.

Other scores follow: Mrs. C. Eves, 85; Mrs. G. Hall, 86; Mrs. H. L. Lawson, 87; Mrs. J. Willis, 87; Mrs. H. G. Mearns, 87; Mrs. J. Macfarlane, 88; Mrs. C. Denham, 89; Mrs. R. B. Horton, 90; Mrs. A. Straith, 92; Mrs. R. L. Pocock, 93; Mrs. A. Williams, 97; Mrs. M. Caverhill, 101.

A match on handicap will be played each week until the final is reached.

In the two-ball foursome tournament held by the women this month the winners were Mrs. C. Denham and Mrs. A. Gonnason, and the runners-up were Mrs. J. McIlraith and Mrs. G. Wheaton, who tied with Mrs. H. G. Mearns and Mrs. R. L. Pocock.

COAST LEAGUE

Lasting power—that resource of second wind that permits the final sprint and brings the champion runner home in front—pays off in baseball, too, sometimes.

It did for Sacramento yesterday when the Senators' Pacific Coast League lead was at stake and, in so doing, spoiled for 15,500 Seattle fans the opening game of their team's home schedule, a game that for a time seemed safely in the bag.

Eleven innings were what it took the Sacs to turn the trick, but in the 11th they fell to for six hits, including Buster Adams' fifth of the day, and gathered four runs for a decisive 7 to 3 final.

Earlier the visitors had wiped out Seattle's three-run head start

Hitting and Fielding Miserable

Detroit Tigers, champions of the American League, are in the cellar with a record of only one victory in five games and with more grief lying in wait for the day Hank Greenberg is inducted into the army.

The Tigers' pitching has been good, but their famed hitting has been a myth and their fielding frightful.

Yesterday Bill Dietrich of Chicago White Sox almost pitched a no-hitter against them. The bespectacled right-hander didn't give a safety until he had one out in the ninth. Then came an error, a single by Greenberg and a homer by Rudy York. The no-hitter was gone, but the game still went to Chicago 6 to 3.

That famous array of sluggers in Tiger uniforms have made only 24 hits in five games, never more than six in any one contest. In three of the affairs they have made three errors.

Dietrich's conquest, his second in eight days, was not the only pitching classic yesterday.

VANDER MEER HOT

John Vander Meer gave Chicago fans a glimpse of his 1938 double no-hit form with a four-hit, 12-strikeout performance that bested Bill Lee as Cincinnati smothered the Cubs 1 to 0.

Hugh Casey subdued New York Giants for the second time in three days to give Brooklyn Dodgers a 7 to 4 victory. He allowed only seven hits and three errors figured in all the Giants scoring. Dolph Camilli drove in five runs with a homer and a single. Giants, however, retained their National League lead.

Boston Red Sox likewise held on to

Canadian Convoys Run Gauntlet of Death Daily

Here is one of the convoys that plough their way daily from Canada to Britain, prosaic heroes of the Battle of Atlantic.

Copyright, 1941, by the newspaper PM Inc. in the U.S., Canada and all the countries in the International Copyright Union. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.

This is the second of a series by George Lyon, who spent a month in Canada making an exhaustive study of the war effort. He talked with all kinds of people from Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King to the seamen of the north Atlantic convoys. He rode with the "tankers" at Camp Borden and studied at first hand all phases of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Today he continues his story of the heroes of the "bridge of ships."

By GEORGE H. LYON

DEATH IN THE CONVOY

Sailors in east coast Canadian ports almost always ended up telling me the same story. They had just asked one of their mates—his name never was the same—how his mother was getting along back home in England and he said: "Mother hasn't been feeling quite herself since the bomb exploded in the kitchen." I suspect it's a music hall gag which has gone the rounds of the fleet, but it really is typical of the regard with which understatement is held in the seacoast towns.

But for the lowest lowdown in understatement I give you Captain "Johnson" of the merchantman Tiger Tilley, torpedoed in a convoy not so long ago off Iceland. "Johnson" and "Tiger Tilley" are fictitious names which I use here because of regard for the Canadian censors.

I was sitting one morning in the office of Commander Richard Oland, chief of the naval convoy service, in a Canadian port, watching some of the convoy commanders—most of them retired British admirals now returned to active service on the north Atlantic at an average age of 60 years—when an aide laid a sheet of paper on the commander's desk. He glanced at it and handed it to me. It read: "Captain of Tiger Tilley outside."

"You'll want to talk to him," the commander said. "I'll see you're introduced."

LIKE TEMPERED STEEL

A few minutes later I was sitting beside the captain, a blue-

eyed, compact piece of Welsh sea stock who reminded me of nothing so much as a piece of finely-tempered steel. I asked him to tell me in his own words what happened to his ship, and so in a cold, measured monotone he dictated his story of death in the convoy. I took it down word by word and here it is:

"Torpedoed without warning Sunday. First torpedo struck engine room. Vast clouds of steam covered midship section. Lifeboats and derricks unshipped. Ship shivered. Lights went out. Ship stopped. Thirty-seven survivors got away in four or five minutes. Both wireless airdials down. No radiation. No SOS going out.

"Chief officer took boat away from ship. Only one lifeboat left. I knew men in locker room and stokehole were done. That's where we were hit. No possibility of escape. One man was blown up through boiler room ventilator and picked up on deck.

"Second torpedo hit 20 minutes later. Two of us still aboard. First radio officer blown about 200 feet. I was knocked down by the explosion. There was debris all over the place. Tried to get a raft away. Failed owing to intense cold. Hands useless. Ship's now settling rapidly. No option but to lay on to raft. Dragged under water as painter was still fast to ship. But it parted and last spectacle was of ship going down, tipping over and going down by stern. Surge of water and then quiet, deserted sea covered with wreckage. Boat returned and picked up radio officer and later took me off raft.

RADIOS USELESS

"Rigged up wireless mast in boat. Endeavored to transmit SOS by portable radio. Did not function, having been damaged. Decided to proceed toward United Kingdom. Stores taken out of raft and set sail, knowing that no one knew of our predicament. Europeans wonderfully cheerful. Men sang popular songs—'Down Mexico Way'.

"Had sufficient food—70 pounds biscuit, two beakers of water, 48 tins condensed milk, case of bully beef, plenty of tobacco. Started rationing immediately, as we did not know how long passage might take. First day's ration: Two biscuits per man, teaspoon of condensed milk on last biscuit. In the afternoon sighted submarine ahead of us, presumably one which sank us and altered course away from it as we feared being machine-

Their one idea is to see that Hitler is on his way out," says Commander Oland of these men, both merchant sailors and navy men, who bring the convoys through. "There are no heroes—just a job to be done and they're going to see it through." Here members of a destroyer crew fit primers to depth charges, their best weapons against U-boat raiders. With the coming of good weather, they're prepared to meet the fiercest underwater offensive yet.

gunned. But she ignored us and moved away at high speed on some other more exciting prey.

Towards evening weather deteriorated and found it necessary to heave to. It was a bleak and long night and men stood to arms and manœuvred as ordered, to keep boat from swamping. Very cold. Men huddled together for warmth. Towards dawn set reefed sail and proceeded on our course. Breakfast this morning was one biscuit each, accompanied by tiny drop of water, drunk out of an empty cigarette tin.

MISTAKEN FOR SUBMARINE

"Towards afternoon ship was sighted and we rowed furiously toward her. She came along at speed, proved to be one of His Majesty's ships, crew at active station, guns loaded, as we were mistaken for a submarine. But fortunately no rash action was taken and we were soon aboard in safe hands, having spent about 36 hours in the ship's lifeboat."

When he had finished dictating the captain took a sheet of my copy paper and wrote out a bit of advice for the U.S. We shook hands and said goodbye. I shall always think of him as one of the bravest men I have ever known.

But that night along came "Tug," alias "Churchill," alias "Squeaker." It is permitted to print his real name, Ralph James Wilson, to say that he is 15 years old, veteran son of a veteran of the Royal Navy and that he was on watch aboard the captain's ship.

From $3 a Week

A film company has paid $175,000 in lump cash to Edna Ferber for her novel "Saratoga Trunk." Miss Ferber has gone far since her childhood in a large Kalamazoo, Mich., family more than 50 years ago. Her first job was as a newspaper reporter at Appleton, Wis., at $3 per week. Just 17, she was said to be the youngest reporter in the country. In 1912 she attracted national attention by covering both political conventions, an unusual assignment then for a woman. Today Miss Ferber is an advocate of popular-priced books; feels sorry for people born after 1918 who missed part of the march of progress; points out that three times in her life she ever saw royal personages they each lost their throne shortly afterward.

Port Alberni Bowler on Top

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frank Vallee of Port Alberni, B.C., took over the lead in the B class singles at the first annual British Columbia fivepin bowling championship tournament here yesterday, rolling a total of 913.

Vallee started with a handicap of four pins and rolled games of 308, 342 and 259 to go 86 pins up on the former leader, G. Mantion of Vancouver.

Port Alberni No. 2 rolled into fourth place in the A class mixed event, shooting 876, 841 and 1,012. Their handicap of 184 pins gave them a total of 2,913.

Bill Burnip of Port Alberni went into eighth place in the same event with a total of 710, made up of 186, 238, 282 and a spot of four pins.

Mrs. Rena Paul, another Port Alberni bowler, gained second place in the C class singles with strings of 211, 172 and 333 for a total of 716. She is now 87 pins behind the leader, Pete Hurthig of Vancouver.

Other Port Alberni bowlers in the C class singles included Mable Anderson, in fifth place with 637; Olga McLean, seventh with 642; Louise McCammon, eighth with 618 (tied with R. N. McLeod of Vancouver); Beth Peterson, 22nd with 472, and Peggy St. James, 23rd with 428.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mace Brown, veteran relief pitcher, has been sold to Brooklyn Dodgers in a straight cash deal, the Pittsburgh Pirates' management announced here yesterday.

Other Women's Lives

Reads Hubby's Mail

Lady Dorothy Bowhill is one woman who can read her husband's mail and get away with it. This good-looking, efficient, young woman is the wife of Britain's Air Marshal, Sir Frederick W. Bowhill, who is Commander-in-Chief of the Royal Air Force, Coastal Command. She has the important job of cipher officer in her husband's headquarters. It is her duty to take military messages arriving for him and decode them. Both serve long hours and are not always off duty at the same time. At the small cottage where they have been living are five telephones in various colors, with a light of the same color that twinkles when the bell rings. Lady Bowhill is the widow of the late Wing Commander A. B. Gaskell, R.A.F. She married Sir Frederick 10 years ago.

Diplomat's Wife

Marrying the Italian Ambassador to Moscow has brought many complications into the life of an American woman, but she side-steps them gracefully as befits the wife of a diplomat. Signora Augusto Rosso has returned to visit her parents and expects to go to Washington to meet her many friends. Capital society has been rather cool to Italian dignitaries of late but the Signora will be given a warm reception. She is the former Frances Wilkinson, of Evanston, Ill., and met her husband several years ago at the capital when he was Rome's Ambassador to the U.S. In Moscow she has been living in the magnificent, marble-halled, artistically appointed Italian embassy. She describes Russia as "extremely stimulating, the most brilliant ballet in the world." Rosso is her second husband.

No Familiarity

Frau Franz Von Papen always addresses her husband, the former German Chancellor who is now Nazi envoy to Turkey, as "Herr von Papen." They have been married 35 years. She is the former Martha von Boch-Galhau, daughter of a wealthy family that possessed important industrial holdings in Belgium, Luxembourg and France. Her wealth and social position were helpful in the rise of the young soldier-diplomat. Frau von Papen has been by her husband's side in many of his turbulent diplomatic posts and figured indirectly in several episodes concerning him that attracted international attention. It was a letter he addressed to her referring to "idiotic Yankees" that was intercepted by the British and became one of the incidents responsible for his recall from Washington by Berlin in 1915.

On the Farm Front

Among the unusual defence jobs is that of Dr. Elizabeth McCoy, research bacteriologist at the University of Wisconsin, who is training bacteria to do their part in the war against Nazism. It sounds like a small job—drilling micro-organisms—but it's really a big one. The anaerobic bacteria in which she has been interested since she earned her master's and doctor's degrees at Wisconsin, start fermenting when brought into contact with certain food masses. SUPPORT ASKED ON TIMBER STAND

How far back from the road should the massive timber which makes up Cathedral Grove on the Port Alberni Highway near Cameron Lake, be preserved, asks the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The question was raised at a luncheon meeting yesterday in Terry's when a letter was read from the Port Alberni Board of Trade asking for support of a stand to preserve the Grove from being logged off.

The Port Alberni group argued that the timber was one of the main tourist attractions in the area and should not be destroyed. A letter was laid on the table from the St. John, New Brunswick, Junior Board of Trade asking that all junior boards of trade and chambers continue study of the Rowell-Sirois Report. It was decided, though, to make an effort to secure a copy of the report.

George Beck reported on Clean-up, Paint-up Week, which he said was highly successful. The city reported rubbish was received during the week which filled a scow 80 feet long, 24 feet wide and 12 feet deep and took six men three hours to unload. Several members said they planned to attend the annual convention of the British Columbia Junior Chamber of Commerce in Chilliwack, May 23 and 24.

Tenders Opened

Hon. C. S. Leary, Minister of Public Works, opened tenders today for two small bridge repair projects. They were as follows: Reflooring the Fraser Avenue Bridge between Lulu Island and Twigg Island, G. E. Baynes, $4,643.50; W. Greenleaf, $8,658; Fraser River Pile Driving Company, $3,432.25; Horie and Latimer, $5,906.

Demolition of Atcheltz Bridge and partial construction of new bridge, W. Greenleaf, $1,736; Fraser River Pile Driving Company, $1,875.95; Horie and Latimer, $1,946.

Sailors' Club Lease Changes Suggested

Three alterations in the proposed lease covering the old Union Club building on Douglas Street, which will be taken over by the Navy League of Canada as a sailors' club, are proposed by the Navy League in a letter to the City Council today.

The league asks that it be given an option to renew for 10 years at the expiration of the present lease, requests the city to extend the period for which no rent should be paid until nine months after signing of the document and asks that the lease be dated from the day on which the city signs it. Under earlier terms the league would have received exemption from rent payment for six months.

TOWN TOPICS

Nathaniel Gray of Sanicthon was appointed a justice of the peace by provincial order-in-council today.

A total of $82.50 in traffic fines was collected today in City Police court, 15 motorists being assessed on parking charges.

Thirty-eight attractive pictures of Victoria appear in the March-April edition of Telephone Talk, the home journal of the B.C. Telephone Company.

Victoria County Lodge, Loyola Orange Association, will meet in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street, on Saturday at 8. Arrangements for the grand lodge will be made.

A reunion of former members of the now disbanded Class A Drivers' Association will be held in the form of a smoker at 1218 Langley Street this evening at 8.

Reflecting party activity to get supporters on the voters' lists in anticipation of the general election, orders covering appointment of 60 election commissioners were approved by the government today. They cover several ridings, including Comox and Alberni-Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island.

A permit for a $2,000 four-room single family dwelling at 3105 Yew Street was issued to Charles N. Brown and another for a $2,300 five-room home at 2747 Jones Street to Mrs. Marie Fletcher by the city building inspector's department late yesterday.

Mrs. C. H. Williams, Doumae Avenue, Saanich, suffered a painful abdomen wound yesterday morning when the chair on which she was standing broke, throwing her on to a sharp piece of wood. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in the C. and C. ambulance and attended by Dr. A. C. Sinclair.

C. A. Murcheson, 844 Johnson Street, reported to city police that during the last six weeks a tire, tube, sunvisor, rear-view mirror, car clock, radiator cap and other fixtures had been stolen from his car. Mrs. J. F. Stokes, 1953 Boucher Avenue, reported that someone stole an auto rug from her car while it was parked in front of the above address. M. Lamont, 740 Newberry Street, reports a coppered steel square, two claw hammers, coat hangers and cupboard door fasteners were stolen from a house under construction at Fort Street and Pentrelew Place.

Harvester Company Freed of Year's Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—International Harvester Company of Canada Limited has won a partial victory in its appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against provincial income tax assessments in Saskatchewan for the years 1934, 1935 and 1936, according to a majority judgment handed down here.

The amount involved was $25,859 divided as follows: For the taxation year 1934, $4,382.07; 1935, $11,341, and the first 10 months of 1936, $10,136.

The judgment set aside the assessment for 1934 and directed the Saskatchewan commissioner of income tax to reconsider the question of reserve for bad debts with respect to assessments for 1935 and 1936. The appellant was allowed half the costs of the appeal.

Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, with Justice H. H. Davis and R. Taschereau would allow the appeal and quash all three assessments.

Before the war, London's population was increasing at the rate of 80,000 a year.

Honor Present Day Spirit of St. George

The red cross of Saint George fluttered from the masthead at the City Hall this afternoon—raised in a salute to the indomitable spirit of England roused in mortal combat with a new and death-dealing dragon.

The flag was raised to fly above the Union Jack and other standards of Britain and her component imperial parts in one of the public ceremonies honoring the day of the patron saint and joining Victoria with other parts of Canada in a tribute to the men who carry on the tradition of the knight who rode in the cause of right.

Throughout the city men and women proud of their English origin wore the rose in their lapels and carried hopes for victory in their hearts.

EXERCISE IN SCHOOLS

In the schools special exercises were conducted, bringing to the mind of the young the importance of the day, and emphasizing the slogan "Forward to Victory."

—with the vision of St. George in our minds and the unconquerable spirit of St. George in our hearts.

Representatives of the three services joined civic, religious and patriotic dignitaries at the flag-raising ceremony at the City Hall today.

A trumpet sounded a salute, Alderman W. H. Davies, city celebrations committee chairman, Dean S. H. Elliott and Reginald Hayward, president of the Victoria St. George Society, took up positions on the City Hall steps to lead the ceremonies, flanked by detachments from the navy, army and air force. Alderman Davies explained the service "not only to honor the patron saint of England but also

Manitoba Election

Bracken Coalition Group Makes Gains

WINNIPEG (CP)—Thirty-eight supporters of Manitoba's coalition government had been elected today to sit in the 55-seat Legislature, while only two opposition candidates had been elected and two others were leading in the fight for the 16 seats still undecided.

As in the last house, Liberal-Progressives were certain of the strongest representation with 21 candidates elected on the basis of unofficial returns from yesterday's voting and six leading in their individual contests.

Conservative supporters of the non-partisan administration formed last November 4 by Premier John Bracken had won 10 seats and were leading four others. Coalition Independents had won four seats and coalition Social Crediters two. The other major coalition group, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, had elected one and was leading in another seat.

Two opposition members-elect when counting was discontinued last night with results far from complete were D. A. Best, Conservative who won Assiniboia from James Aiken, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of the last Legislature, and L. St. George Reubens, Independent who was re-elected in Winnipeg.

Of major importance in the election were the losses suffered by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, which supported coalition, and the indicated defeat of all nine candidates of the Manitoba Social Credit League.

Perhaps because interest waned when return of the government was ensured prior to voting day or perhaps because rain and snow made weather miserable for the electors, the vote was light. In Winnipeg only 58,067 ballots were recorded compared to 78,181 in 1936. In many of the rural ridings, too, the vote was proportionately light.

Pat Knowles of Movie Fame Here

After nine months with the R.C.A.F. as a flying instructor at Regina, Patrick Knowles, English-born Hollywood star, stopped in Victoria today on his way back to Hollywood. On leave, he is returning to his American home pending transfer.

Mr. Knowles, known to his acquaintances as just "Pat," flew to Ottawa last August with two other Hollywood actors, Colin Tapley and Bob Coot, to offer his services to the R.C.A.F. All three had made flying a hobby for many years, were accepted and posted to Regina.

"It's cold and bleak back there," Mr. Knowles remarked. "Such a contrast with Victoria. This city is like a beautifully kept garden. It seems wonderful to be able to fly from winter to spring in 4 hours."

The actor, who appeared in supporting roles in the pictures "Charge of the Light Brigade," to enable us to join in giving a sincere salute to Britain in the dark and critical times through which she is passing."

SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE

He spoke of the special significance of the day this year, in view of the travail and sorrow through which the mother country of millions was passing.

"Recent news concerning the progress of the war has caused no little apprehension in all our hearts," he continued. "But, notwithstanding all the ordeals so far experienced and any tribulations the Empire may be required to face in the future, we have every confidence that the faith and courage and determination of the people in the Old Land will always remain an example and inspiration to us and the whole world. It has fallen to them to undergo great suffering and sacrifice in bearing the brunt of the conflict against the invader and aggressor overseas."

It was only natural for the people of Canada today to express their pride in the attributes of the people of Britain in their struggle to overcome the evil forces which threatened the whole structure of civilization, he said.

Alderman Davies called upon Mr. Hayward to raise the flag of St. George which was broken out to the strains of "There'll Always Be an England."

The ceremony closed with a prayer led by Dean Elliott and the National Anthem.

SOLDIERS, DRUNK, COMMIT THEFT

Private James Boyd was found guilty on a charge of stealing a bag containing a silver teapot and a silver waterpot, the property of Mrs. W. T. Slater, by Magistrate H. C. Hall in City Police Court today. Private Roy Dick, charged with the same theft, pleaded guilty to the charge. They were remanded to tomorrow for sentence.

Doris Joyce Grubb said she parked Mrs. Slater's car on Broad Street and went to find Mrs. Slater. When she was a little way from the car she looked back and saw two soldiers go into the car and get out again with the bag in their possession. She said she followed and on Gordon Street caught up with them. Witness said she asked for the bag back again. They gave it to her. She identified the two accused as the two soldiers she had accosted.

Both Boyd and Dick stated they were very drunk and did not know what they were doing. In fact the court got the understanding that they did not even know they were out together at the time.

Britannia Fragments concert party will give a show at the K. of C. Hut tomorrow night.

Last social evening of the season will be held in headquarters on Thursday evening at 8 by Ward 3 Liberal Association.

REDUCE SENTENCE AGAINST SOLDIER

Sentence of one year imposed upon Charles Rosse, a soldier, by Magistrate H. Beevor-Potts in Nanaimo, February 9, for theft of a car, was reduced to 11 days, the term he had served, by the Court of Appeal here yesterday afternoon.

The court approved alteration of the charge under which the sentence was made to put it under the "joy-riding" section of the code in order to reduce the sentence. A. E. Branca appeared for the appellant and Henry Castillon, K.C., for the crown respondent.

During the afternoon, agreement between Stuart Henderson and H. W. Davey and A. E. Beck with was announced in regard to the conduct of the appeal and in the appeal of Kishen Singh. Kishen Singh was sentenced at the last Victoria Assizes for illegal possession of poppy heads under the Opium and Narcotic Drugs Act. Mr. Henderson is conducting the appeal.

Judgment was also reserved yesterday afternoon on the application of G. L. Fraser, K.C., to have judgment delivered on the appeal of the late H. W. Barker in a Testator's Family Maintenance Act action as if the client had not died prior to delivery of the decision.

Today an appeal for Mah F. Gore against a Vancouver Supreme Court order of Mr. Justice Fisher, opened. Mah F. Gore was instructed to account for and pay into court moneys received by him for insurance on property destroyed by fire after dispute had arisen over the ownership of the property at one time in the appellant's possession. Counsel argued the money received by Mah Gore was a matter between him and the insurance company only and that others with claims on the property could not be interested in it.

Goods in question include products and chattels of the former Paramount Knitting Mill, for which two bills of sale were formerly issued and later set aside.

Y Circus
"Bingling Brothers'" Circus, annual event sponsored by the Y.M.C.A., is receiving its final coat of polish in preparation for its presentation on May 2 and 3. The Y.M.C.A. Circus committee, under J. A. Heritage, is handling the show.

The show will take patriotic lines in both program and decoration. Warren W. Martin, chairman of the program committee, announced also that the acts of the local performers would be augmented by several professionals to be brought in from outside points.

Plans to date call for a united three services' band for the grand finale when the Victoria Girls' Drill Team will climax the show. The Shrine Band, under James M. Miller, will provide general music for the circus performance.

The acrobatic part of the show will be supervised by Leonard Oliver, and clowning will be under the wing of James Taylor.

35 Years Ago

San Francisco Fell Apart

From San Francisco Chronicle.

Thirty-five years ago (April 18) while the city slept, the tortured earth along the San Andreas fault groaned and split asunder and San Francisco caught fire.

The earth shook, and the brave city like a city of cards, and the flames licked down its streets and over its hills.

The only thing in the world that has ever resembled San Francisco 35 years ago is London today. Only San Francisco was luckier. The earth shakes once.

The Stukas keep on coming. Thirty-five years ago, the city needed every fireman it could get; every piece of apparatus it had. But what it needed more was water. For, as the fires burgeoned all over the city, no water came. The fire lines were dry in the streets.

The flames spread in all directions. By nightfall, they had devoured the business district. They were raging in North Beach, along the docks down the Bay Shore, driving before them a hopeless, homeless army that was afraid of sleep because they were afraid of fire.

PEOPLE FLEE TO PARK

With their blankets, their beds, their stoves, their children, they fled to Golden Gate Park, to the barren dunes near the ocean.

There, the wealthiest banker in town rubbed shoulders with the beggars, cooked lamb chops on sticks over the same fire.

Streets cracked apart. There was a hole 10 feet in diameter at Eighteenth Street and Valencia. Water flowed at the bottom of the pit and no one knew where it came from. Street car tracks arched in fantastic hoops.

Water pipes burst. Gas mains were shattered, and as the fires continued to blaze, bartenders gave away their champagne because they thought they would never have a chance to sell it.

Looters were shot in the streets by the militia, the cavalry from the Presidio. They were left as they lay. On each one was placed a sign: "I Am a Thief."

ROAR OF THE FLAMES

VON WERRA FLEES

U.S. FOR PERU

WASHINGTON (AP)—Franz von Werra, German war flyer who escaped from a Canadian prison train and made his way into the United States, where he was placed under a $10,000 bond, has fled the country and apparently gone to Peru, it was announced here by Attorney-General Robert Jackson.

Declaring von Werra's flight while his case was under consideration "constitutes a flagrant abuse of neutral hospitality, which had been invoked on his behalf," Jackson ordered a tightening of treatment in all similar cases.

(At Heron Bay, Ont., Hubert Stethem, director of internment operations for Canada, said Canadian and British authorities would be prepared to send a destroyer after Baron von Werra.)

(In Ottawa, internment authorities expressed appreciation of the decision announced at Washington to tighten the treatment accorded to escaped prisoners of war who reach the United States.)

'Bookie Tip' Scheme Suspected in South

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The discovery of jockey caps and blouses in a San Mateo house where illicit race information was received by radio from Bay Meadows track aroused suspicions today that certain race horse owners were mixed up in a "bookie tip" scheme.

The "silk" was found when racing commission inspectors and agents of the attorney-general's office raided the house in breaking up a system by which race results, mutuels and odds are secretly transmitted by short wave radio direct from the track to bookies all over the country.

Warren Olney, deputy attorney-general, said the house was that of a woman who races a string of horses at Bay Meadows. She denied having knowledge of the "bookie tip" scheme, but Olney said his department was not entirely convinced and would question her further.

Olney said another horse owner, a friend of the woman, would be asked how it happened that his "silk" was among those found at the house.

Five arrests have been made.

'Philadelphia Story' Will Open Tomorrow

New Yorkers paid $4.40 a seat for 52 weeks to see Katharine Hepburn in her Broadway stage comedy, "The Philadelphia Story." If the play had half the laughs and sparkle of the motion picture, which stars Miss Hepburn with Cary Grant, and James Stewart, and opens at the Atlas Theatre tomorrow, it was worth double the price.

The comedy talent of Grant and Stewart need no recommendation, but Miss Hepburn is a constant delight and a treat for her fans in a comedy role made to order for her.

'The Great Waltz'

Magic melodies of Vienna amid a dramatic, romantic story of the musician who was the voice of the gayest city in the world, brings Luise Rainer, Fernand Gravet and Miliza Korjus, Viennese opera star, to the screen in "The Great Waltz," drama of the life of Johann Strauss, opening at the York Theatre tomorrow.

Not only the physical Vienna of the period but its spirit are caught in the romantic story of the Waltz King's life and loves. Strauss' waltzes and the opera airs are presented in spectacular sequences in the Imperial Opera, the Dommayr Casino, grand ball sequences and the court of Emperor Franz Josef.

DOMINION THEATRE

As the swashbuckling bandit, Pancho Lopez, Wallace Beery comes to the screen in his most colorful characterization since "Viva Villa!" in "The Bad Man," now at the Dominion Theatre.

Very, amid thrills, has numerous comedy moments as he seeks to straighten out the lives of others by his own bandit philosophy.

The play, by Porter Emerson Browne, was one of the historic stage successes of Broadway.

PLAZA THEATRE

The script for the new A.T.P. production "I See Ice," called upon George Formby to play six different characters. The first is that of a sleuth photographer, the second a blonde and beautiful Tiller girl, the third a hard-working charwoman, the fourth a theatre property man, the fifth a Cossack, and the sixth an ice hockey referee. "I See Ice" is being screened at the Plaza Theatre.

Will Entertain Toronto Cagers

VANCOUVER (CP) — It isn't all going to be warfare when Toronto Simpson Grads, eastern Canada basketball champions, arrive here Saturday morning to engage University of British Columbia Thunderbirds in a best-of-five final series for the Dominion title.

The players left without Hal Axon, star forward. Axon, a University of Toronto student, remained in the city to write examinations.

Nine players, Coach Jack Smith and Manager Bud Baird made up the Toronto party. The players are: Shag Park, Bill Breadon, Snake Martin, Ken Bundy, George McDowell, Bill Devitt, Art Anderson, Dave Maxwell and Ray Murphy.

McNALLY — Funeral services will be held in Montreal Thursday for Francis Emmett McNally, secretary-treasurer of the West Kootenay Light, Heat and Power Company.

Motoring tours of the city, North Vancouver and West Vancouver have been arranged. Plans for a boat tour of Vancouver Harbor are being made, as well as for a civic dinner, radio interviews and an introduction to the public from the stage of a local theatre.

Lay First Keel For Merchant Ship

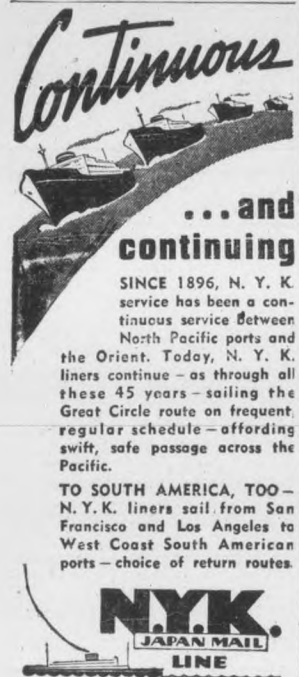

VANCOUVER (CP)—Testing of a proposed branch shipyard site on the south shore of Burrard Inlet is being carried out by Burrard Drydock Company Limited, Hubert Wallace, manager of the company, said.

He said he expected word on whether the company had been awarded new cargo ship contracts. The company now holds contracts for eight ships to cost $15,000,000.

Workers today started to lay the keel of the first steel cargo ship at the Burrard plant and will start on the keel of the second before the end of the week.

Germans Sail Home On Japanese Ship

PANAMA, Panama (AP)—Twenty-four Germans, three times larger than any group to leave the canal zone at one time before, sailed last night for Germany by way of Yokohama aboard the Japanese steamer Heiyo Maru. The group was headed by Dr. Walther Schmidt, German consul in Colon.

Lumber Shipments Slightly Lower

Waterborne lumber exports from British Columbia in the first quarter of 1941 amounted to 256,772,455 board feet to overseas points, according to Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau returns received by the provincial forest branch.

Practically all of it went to Empire markets. The United Kingdom got 191,182,017 board feet, Africa took 39,390,968 board feet and Australia, 13,721,991 board feet.

The total overseas export was down 33,000,000 feet from the corresponding quarter of last year. South Africa took 18,000,000 feet more but shipments to Australia were down 8,600,000 feet.

Domestic shipments to the U.S. and eastern Canada were 24,170,504, compared with 19,739,255 for the first quarter of last year.

March shipments were 74,850,574 feet overseas, a drop of 28,000,000 feet from February.

Italians Take Over Yugoslav Freighter

SHANGHAI (AP)—Italian marines stationed here boarded the Yugoslav freighter Tomislav in the Whangpoo River yesterday and were expected to hold it indefinitely along with the Italian liner Conte Verde.

Authoritative quarters said one Italian officer and 12 marines took over the 5,387-ton Yugoslav vessel, which was under charter to the Australian wheat board and piled between Melbourne, Manila and China ports.

Italian quarters would not confirm a report the boarding was the result of a request from the Tomislav's captain for an armed guard because of political dissension among the crew.

'Britain Will Survive,' Air Hero Tells Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Britain is "finding the answer" to Germany's night bombing raids, Air Marshal William A. Bishop of the Royal Canadian Air Force said today in an address before the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

"We were three months ahead of Germany in night bombing, and although when she began, she had a superior force of bombers, we are still the superior navigators at night and we still benefit from this," he said.

He said the Germans "have reached their maximum, allowing for other commitments," and "both sides at present are sending their night bombers over without appreciable or important losses."

"The answer is not to be found in any sudden remedy. But the remedy will be found. There are methods of making it more difficult for the night bomber. I only wish I could tell you how swiftly we are finding the answer in that regard."

New York List

NEW YORK (AP)—A late-day sprint of buying orders sent stock market quotations higher today for the first time in eight sessions.

Gains of a point or more prevailed among leading issues, with steel, rail, motor and aviation shares in the vanguard. Trans actions approximated 400,000 shares.

Wall Street analysts regarded the action as indicating the persistent selling of the last three weeks had discounted much of the market effect of bad news from Greece.

Among the major gainers were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Preferred, Chrysler, General Motors, U.S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Anaconda and American Can.

Among the Canadian issues, Lake Shore was the biggest loser, down 3/4 while Canadian Pacific lost 1/2 and Dome gained 1/2. In the bonds, Canada 4 continued its climb, up 1/2 point.

Marco Polo Described Kublai Khan's Summer Palace

We have spoken about the mighty empire which Jenghis Khan built up. The empire was doomed to be broken up, but before that happened it was ruled by an emperor of great fame. He was known as Kublai Khan.

Kublai Khan was a grandson of Jenghis. He added most of southern China to his empire, and built his capital city at or near the spot where Peking now stands. He was a Mongol, but he ruled a land containing many millions of Chinese. The Mongols and the Chinese are relatives.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think that a man whose wife dies, leaving him with three children, one nearly 20 and two nearly 11, should wait so long to marry again if he has found an ideal woman who would make a happy home for himself and his children and have in mind such a person. She seems to love my children and has shown herself not indifferent to me. She is well educated, a good homemaker and manager and the kind of a woman I would like to have around my children. It would be hard to find the qualities she possesses in the average person, and I am afraid if I wait too long to let her to marry me I may lose her. I am a child, I think I should do?
 RFWLDERED, WYOMING

Answer: There is no ethical reason, of course, why you shouldn't marry the lady at once, but inasmuch as convention decrees that a bereaved widow and widower should wait a year after the death of their mates before remarrying, I should earnestly advise you to respect Mrs. Grundy's ruling on the matter.

It will save you a lot of criticism. It will keep your children from feeling that you could not have loved their mother much if you so quickly forgot her and were so anxious to put another in her place, and it will make them much more willing to meet a step-mother in a friendly spirit.

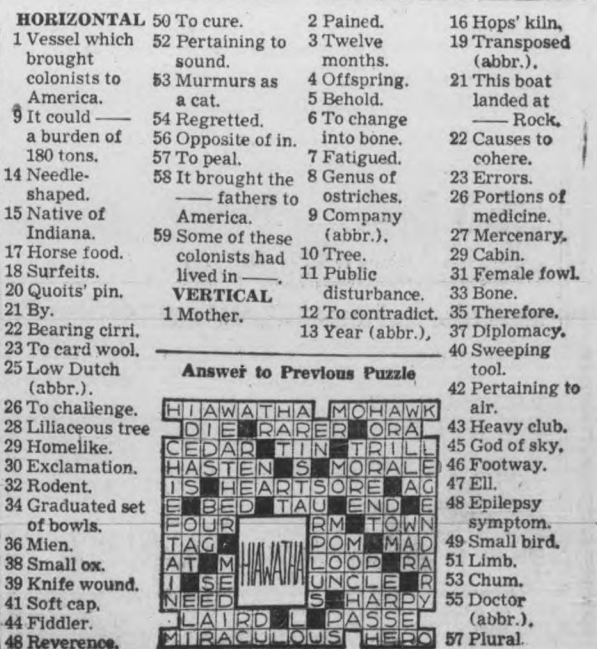

After all, you would have only a few months to wait before your year of official mourning ended. And you need not be afraid of losing the lady. If she stayed single all these years, she evidently did not make as great an appeal to all men as she does to you.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in love with a man who is perfect in every way, except that he is very tall. He is six feet six inches and I am five feet four inches. Would it look out of place if I should marry a man so much taller than I am? ANNIE.

Answer: You don't buy a husband by the yard. You marry him for his character, not his height, and if that is all right it doesn't matter whether he is shorter than you are or taller than you are.

Gives Gold Medals for War
People in the News

John Welch, white-haired and 72, of 230 Regina Street, Saanich, has a new idea to raise money for war funds. He will start the ball rolling himself and hopes hundreds of others throughout Canada will follow suit.

His idea is a stream of gold medals coming from all parts of Canada to some war effort fund—the medals worn by higher officers in the many fraternal organizations in the Dominion.

To start his idea he is going to give two of his most prized possessions, two gold medals which denote his high official standing in the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes. He would like to see all Masons, Buffaloes, Elks, Moose, Eagles and other fraternal organizations come forward and drop their lodge emblems into the melting pot for this cause.

Mr. Welch has a sound argument as to why they should, as follows:

"If Hitler should win this war our lodges won't be able to do anything for us... he will wipe them out as he has done in Germany."

Money realized from the medals would go a long way toward helping finance the effort to crush Hitler, Mr. Welch said. He was not fussy which fund the medals went to, but seemed to favor the Lord Mayor's Fund.

The two gold medals Mr. Welch received from his lodge are the Knight of Merit Medal and the Past Grand Primo Medal. He suggests the donors keep the ribbons which accompany the jewels.

John Welch... wearing lodge medals, including two gold ones he will give to some war effort fund.

Mr. Welch was born in England, but has lived in Canada for 30 years or more. He was an insurance agent in Winnipeg for many years. He has been living in retirement here for three and a half years.

Canada and U.S.
Blamed for Failure

LORD MARLEY, Deputy Speaker of the British House of Lords, said in Toronto the Treaty of Versailles "was the wisest and most just settlement that could have been designed at the time, but many of its provisions were never put into effect."

The principal cause of failure at Versailles, he said, were "the American and Canadian representatives."

"The United States had once tried and failed in welding together a collection of sovereign states, each of which insisted on maintaining its full sovereignty, and only after failure, saw that some surrender of full sovereignty was necessary if federation was to be successful. Canada learned the same thing at federation."

"But European statesmen either will not or cannot understand American history, and the lesson was not learned. Hence the Versailles plan failed because each state in the league wanted to maintain its sovereignty status to the full, and merge nothing in the corporate character of the League (of Nations)."

Empire Will Win,
Says Roosevelt

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT said Axis advances in the Balkans neither will win the war for Hitler and Mussolini nor result in a diminution of shipments of American war materials to Britain.

The President at his press conference said there were too many waves of high hope and deep despair in the United States, influenced by day-to-day war developments.

What the people should realize, he said, was that the war would be won only by strengthening and keeping going the British Empire, the defenders of democracy.

He said he was supremely confident the defenders of democracy would keep going and he released this statement there would be no diminution of supplies from the United States.

At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt dodged any commitment on the question of conveying, saying he never lived at Delphi, the legendary home of a Greek oracle.

The President's comment on public reaction in the United States was considered to be timely and needed. There has been evidence lately that a feeling of defeatism was current in some sections of the public, the result of the collapse of Yugoslavia, the retreat in Greece and German victories in North Africa; coming so soon after it appeared that Italy was on her last legs and that Egypt and Suez were safe.

"Victim Won't Oblige"

MALCOLM MACDONALD, British high commissioner to Canada, told the conference of Canadian mayors in Ottawa much of the brunt of resistance to air raids in Great Britain has been done by municipal authorities.

"We owe the survival of Britain during these fateful times in large measure to the municipal authorities," he said. "We owe it, too, to the new regional organizations which have been interposed as a link between the central government and the local authorities."

If a town's water supply were destroyed to the extent of four-fifths and half of it were restored in 48 hours and all of it by the end of the fourth day no notice of this was published in the newspapers lest the enemy raid the town again.

"The list of stricken towns now is a long one," he said. "The battered boroughs of old Britain... have dressed their wounds whilst they stood and fought. There is no more glorious page in the proud history of municipal government."

"It is as though a murderer strikes viciously, smash, smash, at his victim, endeavoring to break his bones, to lacerate his arteries through which flows his life's blood, to knock the breath out of his body."

"But the victim won't oblige. His bones do nothing but crack, his blood continues to circulate, he goes on breathing."

"And instead of succumbing he gradually gathers his own strength and strikes back at his assailant, using his fists until in the end he has the murderer by the throat and at his mercy."

Debate on India

L. C. M. S. AMERY, Secretary of State for India, submitting resolutions to the Commons in London to extend the defence of India regulations for a year, declared the form of government in India could not be changed during the "supreme crisis" of war.

He said the congress party, India's largest political group, which has been demanding immediate dominion status, "seems blind to the risk" that any alternative constitution now might give it less influence in the control of Indian affairs than the present set-up.

Declaring there are "terrible dangers" inherent in any break-up of a unified India, Mr. Amery said "anxious as we are to see the responsibility of Indian government resting on Indian shoulders, we only could transfer that responsibility to some authority which could assume it without immediate breaking down or breaking up."

The minister declared the present trend causing unrest in India is the "growing strength of the demand for complete severance from the west of India of the northwestern and northeastern zones in which Moslems constitute the majority and their establishment as completely independent states."

Col. Josiah Wedgwood, Labor, declared: "If we lose this war India will get its independence at once. If we win it will be as one member of an Anglo-American federation. If that is the outcome India will be satisfied."

Earl Winterton, Conservative, said: "The great dominant fact is that we are going to defend India against the enemy. For the first time in the relationship between Britain and India there is danger from two sides and possibly from a third. It ought to be possible to raise 2,000,000 men from India and equip them with tanks and guns, but it has been said that the number sent overseas is 160,000."

Winding up the debate, Mr. Amery said "India could produce 2,000,000 fighting men but that is not enough."

"In the last few weeks we have seen 1,000,000 of the bravest soldiers in the world scattered to the winds by the armored divisions of Germany," he declared.

Pope Must Be Neutral

REV. FATHER JOHN HEENAN, speaking on the "Britain Speaks" program, said a German victory "would mean enslavement of men's souls and the slow torture and attempted destruction of the Christian faith."

"I have a sober conviction that evil can never achieve the goal," he added. "Final triumph will be the resurrection of the good within our souls and in those of our present enemies."

Father Heenan, who spoke "as an individual," said "the chief enemy of the British Empire is also the declared foe of the Christian faith."

"It is becoming increasingly difficult in Germany to be a good Christian and a wholehearted supporter of the Nazi regime."

Noting "recent denunciations" of the state of religion in Germany in Vatican broadcasts, Father Heenan said Pope Pius XII must remain neutral.

"The Pope is the faith of all mankind," he said. "He cannot be on one side."

Chinese Woman Flier

HANYIN CHENG, one of China's two girl fliers, who has 250 flying hours to her credit and holds the distinguished Federation Aeronautique Internationale license from the Royal Aero Club, has been living inconspicuously in Vancouver for several months.

She said she was in Vancouver on diplomatic service. Women in China don't fly, Miss Cheng said, but it has been different with the Cheng family. Her brother is a flier for the Chinese government while she flew for thousands of miles as a passenger before taking up piloting herself.

As a newcomer I think the health inspector should check up on some of Victoria's cafes. Last Saturday night I went into one, found the floors covered with cigarette butts and dirt, the food exposed to the public's coughs, gum stuck underneath the tables, and the air terrible. Ventilation fans should be compulsory where there is no air-conditioning.

Letters to the Editor

UNFAIR TO DISCHARGE
MEN

Something must be done at once about men who have been accepted into the service and then discharged as unfit. Many of these men have come long distances, have given up jobs, have paid their own travelling and personal expenses to do that which has been urged upon them to do—to enlist and serve their country.

A short time ago a young man arrived from Duncan to enlist. He reported to the military authorities in Victoria, but was told to go and get his teeth attended to before he could be accepted.

This young man did, at his own expense, and then returned for further examination. The young man was rejected and told to go home. Not having any money he was unable to return. Except for the kindness of the transportation company, who gladly provided this need, this young man would have been stuck in the city. Yet he quit a job in order to come to Victoria to offer his services.

NOT THE TIME

May I suggest to Saanich Council and taxpayers that it is obvious the present is not the time for a large project of boring wells for a water supply. Material and labor prices are excessive, and the cash is also required for war essentials. Let it stay over until war industry closes down.

SEVENOAKS

One writer is not conspicuously logical. When he is shown that prayer is not an efficient practical way of dealing with Hitler, he does not draw the true conclusion that he should rather be fought with more ships and guns. He jumps to an astonishing conclusion that this better way is "mighty near sympathizing with the enemy!" Could anything be more absurd?

RIGHT TO COIN

In your issue of March 22, J. Chalmers of 3541 Saanich Road, wrote on the gold standard. In yours of 15th A. Chalmers and J. Chambers both of same address wrote in criticism of "Union Now." In this last letter there is an incorrect statement: "This proposed gold standard renders farcical the 'Union Now' proposal that each country shall have the so-called right to coin and issue money."

As previously explained in one of my replies, the Federal Union will have the right to coin and issue money, and fix other measures, and not the individual nations comprising the Federation.

Probably these gentlemen do not know that Lord Beaverbrook made a statement in England about two weeks ago urging that a Federal Union should be initiated between the United States of America and the British Commonwealth.

I think the majority of the Canadian public will rather be guided by Lord Beaverbrook's remarks than by those of two local gentlemen.

Sande Honored
By Jockeys Guild

BALTIMORE (AP)—Earle Sande, whose riding feats made racing history a few years ago, was singled out by the Jockeys' Community Fund and Guild to day as the jockey who has done the most to honor his profession.

The little guy will be honored for his "fairness and sportsmanship" at a testimonial dinner to be given by the Jockeys' Guild following the Preakness at Pimlico, May 10.

Sande was selected over such horsemen as Max Hirsch, Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, Johnny Loftus, Lou Schaefer, George Odom and Andy Schuttlinger—all former jockeys who turned trainers.

Sande came out of American Falls, Idaho, just after the first Great War.

He won the Kentucky Derby aboard Zev in 1923 and came back two years later to win with Flying Ebony and guided the great Gallant Fox to victory in 1930.

Repeat Plymouth Raids

PLYMOUTH, Eng. (CP)—The Nazi air force smashed at Plymouth during the night with a major raid for the second successive night, piling on death and destruction in an already hard-hit city.

The violent assault left many fires blazing and caused considerable damage. The attacking planes, driving through a thunderous anti-aircraft barrage, were over the coastal area until nearly dawn.

Although the attack was severe, the government said it did not match in intensity previous raids on this area.

Homes, business buildings, stores, churches, hospitals and theatres were hit.

With bombs exploding about them, rescue crews worked hour after hour to release persons trapped in public shelters.

By daybreak, emergency feeding centres were being set up for the homeless, and special convoys of food and supplies began to pour in as the townspeople were grimly about the task of restoring conditions of normalcy.

Even as this work went on, German planes were reported in the vicinity of two south Wales towns during the morning.

W. Ord Heads
Dickens Group

Capt. Wilfred Ord, for the third successive year, was elected president of the Victoria Branch No. 113, Dickens Fellowship at the annual meeting held in the club-rooms Monday night.

Ord thanked the branch committee for its co-operation and also the press for publicizing the activities of the organization. He later gave a reading of the Pickwick Papers.

G. H. Henderson, honorary secretary, reported a successful year despite war conditions, mentioning the present enrollment as being 40 members.

Officers elected for the coming year were: Vice-presidents, Miss C. G. Fox and W. L. Llewellyn; honorary secretary, G. H. Henderson; honorary treasurer, Harry Wood; honorary auditor, G. R. Thomson; executive, Mrs. M. J. Peacey, Mrs. R. M. Weller, Mrs. G. R. Thomson, W. J. Conover and C. C. Pemberton. A. W. Arnup was re-elected honorary president and Dean S. H. Elliott honorary vice-president.

CROWDS FLOCK
TO B.I. LECTURES

Rev. E. J. Springett, Dominion Commissioner, gave the second of his lectures on Tuesday night in the First Baptist Church to an overflow audience. "The Coming Attack on Jerusalem" was his subject.

Again Mr. Springett emphasized the seriousness of the crisis through which we are passing. Never has the Empire been in such peril and our social order so threatened by the forces of evil, and the final outcome of the crisis must be in Palestine, the centre of attack Jerusalem.

In the prophets Ezekiel, Zechariah, Joel, and Revelation, chapters 17-20, there is absolute confirmation of what is coming.

In that day, the great day of the battle of God Almighty, not Armageddon, for that is Haifa, the place where God's people will retreat for safety, the confederacy of the Balkan peoples, and the other one from the north, will descend to attack Jerusalem, and only God fighting for us will be the way of deliverance.

Tonight, in the First Baptist Church, at 8, Mr. Springett will speak on "Time Marches On."

BOTTLES CHAMPAGNE—The Rance of Sarawak, considered one of the wealthiest women in the world, is shown putting caps on the tops of champagne bottles at a winery in New York City, where she is employed. She's in her present predicament because the war has prevented her from getting her money out of Europe. She intends to return to Sarawak after the war to join her husband, the White Rajah.

Debate on India

L. C. M. S. AMERY, Secretary of State for India, submitting resolutions to the Commons in London to extend the defence of India regulations for a year, declared the form of government in India could not be changed
